Anglo-American Accord Praised

LONDON—(AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin joined last night in praising the growth of British-American friendship and understanding as a pattern for peace in a turbulent world.

Going from a stormy session of the Big Four foreign ministers to a dinner of the Pilgrims Society, the United States and British cabinet members stressed the desire for peace in the world and acclaimed the bonds between their two countries. The society's aim is to promote U. S.-British friendship.

MARSHALL recalled the settlement of past British-American disputes and declared, "I know of no better example in history of what can be accomplished by nations who are willing to negotiate in the spirit of frankness and with a genuine desire to resolve their difficulties."

"Our friendship is not exclusive," Bevin declared. "We extend it in the same way to our fellow human beings the world over. Just as we, the British and Americans, understand one another, so we wish to make this understanding worldwide."

The two diplomatic chiefs avoided mention of deadlocks and recriminations in the Big Four negotiations over Germany's future. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was present. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was not. The latter's absence brought comment from Viscount Greenwood, chairman of the society, which has branches on both sides of the Atlantic.

"We did our best to get the Big Four here" Greenwood declared. "They are all here except Mr. Molotov. We would have been glad to have had him here, however, much as some of us differ with him, and some of us do profoundly."

Marshall said the world is "sick unto death of war" and called for an end to propaganda about a new war.

BEVIN praised Marshall's efforts to revive Europe and declared that the Marshall Plan expressed the "true, generous heart of the American people."

"History has decreed," Bevin said, "that Mr. Marshall's name will be associated with one of the greatest efforts that have ever been made in the establishment of peace: The European recovery program."

On the same general subject, Marshall declared that there was a "great surge of American public opinion in support of an effort to alleviate the sufferings and hardships" of the people of Europe.

No Bids Received On Bay Bridge

When it came time to open bids on the financing of the $15,000,000 lower bay bridge yesterday, the Port Authority was dismayed to learn the bridge bond had no takers. They'll now try another plan.

LEWIS TAKES COAL MINERS OUT OF AFL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John L. Lewis marched his 600,000 United Mine Workers out of the AFL for the second time yesterday, in a bitter row stemming from his refusal to sign a non-Communist affidavit.

Lewis notified AFL President William Green of the new split with this roughly scrawled note: "Green, AFL — We disaffiliate. 12/47."

He had assailed AFL leaders as "intellectually fat and stately asses" because they decided to comply with the Taft - Hartley act requiring union officers to swear they are not Communists.

THEY DID THIS so their unions could have access to the national labor relations board, with its facilities for selecting collective bargaining agents, etc. Lewis, though he is no Communist, would have nothing to do with the act.

LEWIS

So that Lewis' defiance would not deprive AFL unions of access to the NLRB, the federation changed its constitution in such a way that the 15 - man executive council, of which Lewis was a member, was removed from the roster of federation "officers." Lewis then withdrew from the council.

This week the 67-year-old UMW president called his 30-man executive council into a session which culminated in last night's announcement.

K. C. Adams, editor of the UMW Journal, told reporters of the decision. Lewis himself remained in the council room.

Adams also announced election of Thomas Kennedy as UMW vice president succeeding the late John O'Leary of Pittsburgh, and of John Owens, Ohio district president, as the new secretary-treasurer.

Kennedy, 60, of Hazelton, Pa., has been secretary - treasurer since 1924. He followed William Green in that post when the present AFL head was chosen to succeed Samuel Gompers as president of the federation.

Adams assured reporters the miners had made "no deal" for political collaboration with any other labor group.

The UMW, which had been in the AFL since its founding in 1890 first withdrew in the great split of labor led by Lewis in 1936. Lewis helped form the CIO to organize industrial unions over the hot objection of the old line craft unionists of the AFL.

THE UNW BOSS fell out with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt prior to the 1940 elections and stepped down from the CIO presidency because Roosevelt won re-election to the White House. Within two years he was out of the CIO altogether and until January, 1946 he played a lone hand.

However, the wide rift created between himself and the AFL leaders in 1936 gradually narrowed and he and Green healed their old wounds. William L. "Big Bill" Hutcheson, carpenters' boss with whom Lewis swapped punches at the 1935 AFL convention paved the way for return of the miners to the federation in 1946.

Their withdrawal yesterday cuts the AFL's claimed membership to around 7,000,000 and makes the AFL and CIO closer to the same size.

The AFL has been using a figure of about 7,600,000 and the CIO "more than 6,000,000."

With "Big John" again walking alone, organized labor is more disunited than ever — at a time when many labor leaders have been calling for more unity.

Hitler Escaped In U-Boat, Says German Pilot

WARSAW — (AP) — A one-time German SS (elite guard) pilot, sticking to his story that he flew Adolf Hitler and his mistress Eva Braun to Denmark just before the fall of Berlin, was reported last night to have said others were on the flight.

The newspaper Zycie Warszawy said Capt. Peter Baumgart had elaborated upon earlier accounts in a statement to Polish authorities in Mokotow fortress prison, where he is waiting to go on trial on war crimes charges in Warsaw next Wednesday.

The paper reported Baumgart said a sister of Eva Braun, a German general named Rommer and his wife and one other aide of Hitler were aboard the plane. Baumgart said the plane landed in a field in Denmark 44 miles from the Eider river which runs through northern Germany just below the Danish border.

Hitler's party then boarded a submarine, and the three planes flew back to Berlin. (British army intelligence reports say Hitler and Eva Braun, after an eleventh-hour wedding, killed themselves April 30, 1945, in a bomb shelter in the garden of the Reichschancellory in Berlin. The Russians blew the bomb shelter up only Thursday.)

WALLACE JUST JOKING ABOUT TAFT, HE SAYS

ALBANY, N. Y. — (AP) — Henry A. Wallace asserted last night he was only indulging in a game of "make believe" when he said he would vote for Republican Senator Robert A. Taft over President Truman if the 1948 election were limited to those two.

Besides elaborating on his Taft statement, the former Democratic vice president declared that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was trying to back into the White House and he predicted the people would have a choice between "progress and reaction" in the presidential election next fall.

HE CONTINUED to avoid a definite declaration on whether a third party would be formed for the 1948 presidential race.

At Buffalo Thursday, Wallace told reporters that he hoped he would not have to choose between Truman and Taft, but if he did he would vote for Taft provided he continued to oppose universal military training and what Wallace called a foreign policy leading toward war with Russia.

In his speech last night at a rally sponsored by the Progressive Citizens of America, the man whom President Truman fired as secretary of commerce in 1946 in a clash over foreign policy, said:

"In my press conferences these days the newspaper men keep me amused with their hypothetical questions about my preferences in Republican candidates and my preferences over the Truman-of-the-moment on the basis of Taft's opposition to universal military training. I made it clear that Taft represents the best kind of the 19th century thinking and that the voters were entitled to a better choice than that between Taft and Truman.

"THAT POINT isn't very clear in the morning papers I have seen, so I am going to call a halt to the game of 'make believe' because it would take something more than a miracle for me to cast a vote for a Republican candidate for president — something like their nominating (Senator) Claude Pepper, Democrat of Florida — but it is past the 'fun' stage and I don't want anyone to seriously believe that I could vote for Mr. Taft.

"The people must have a choice between progress and reaction. The people must have a choice between a road to war and a road to peace. The people must have a chance to choose the road to full employment and full production. They shall have such a choice."

LANDON BACKS TRUMAN PLAN FOR RELIEF

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman wants congress to underwrite western Europe's recovery program for at least four years, Alf M. Landon said yesterday after talking with Truman at the White House.

This view is in direct conflict with the stand taken by Senator Taft, Republican of Ohio, and several other Republican leaders who want any long-term help by the U. S. to be granted on a year-to-year basis.

Landon, former governor of Kansas and Republican presidential nominee in 1936, told reporters Truman had authorized him to relay the presidential wish for a four-year guarantee of aid to Europe.

EXPRESSING agreement with the president, Landon said: "I told him these people in Europe are sticking out their necks, that their very lives are at stake and they ought to know what they can count on."

Four years of assistance, at a total cost of $15,700,000,000 to $18,300,000,000 is contemplated in Secretary of State Marshall's program to help the 16 western European countries which have agreed to help themselves at the same time.

Landon

President Truman's press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said yesterday that the presidential message detailing the program will be sent to congress "shortly" but not before Truman has conferred with congressional leaders next Monday.

Senate and house conferees meanwhile reached partial agreement on differences between the two houses' bills authorizing more than $500,000,000 in stopgap assistance until a long-range aid program can get started.

They deferred action, however, on the chief conflict— the fact that the senate measure calls for $597,000,000 for France, Italy and Austria while the house version provides only $590,000,000 and cuts China in for $60,000,000 of it.

All indications were that the house appropriations committee, which must recommend voting of the actual funds, would leave China out of its money bill.

THE JOINT conference committee agreed to authorize a $150,000,000 advance by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to start help flowing to the three European countries as soon as final legislation is passed.

Chairman Eaton, Republican of New Jersey, of the house foreign affairs committee said the conferees also agreed upon:

1. A compromise under which not more than 10 per cent of the total funds could be used to buy commodities abroad, and none of these commodities could be bought at a higher cost than that prevailing on the domestic market.

2. A house amendment requiring the president to make regulations governing relief buying so as to ease the impact on American prices and supplies.

3. Another amendment directing the purchase of as much petroleum and petroleum products outside the U. S. as possible.

4. The senate's decision that the stopgap program should end next March 31 rather than on June 30 as proposed by the house.

Eaton told reporters that the conference committee was "in a mess" because the house "made a farm bloc bill out of this legislation by insisting on various provisions to protect the price of farm products."

Arab King Still Friend Of U. S.

By TONY SMITH

(World Copyright, 1947, Gannett News Service)

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia, (By Cable)—King Ibn Saud today assured me he will "protect and maintain" America's vast oil operations and other interests in Saudi Arabia regardless of what happens in Palestine.

The richest, most powerful and shrewdest ruler in the Arab world broke his long political silence to clarify his stand on the Palestine crisis.

He sent this message to America:

"Our friendship with the United States is solid and well-established.

"WE BELIEVE you made a mistake in the United Nations Palestine decision, but we hope you will correct it."

In an hour-long, exclusive interview, the 70-year old king said reports that his government is prepared to cancel American oil concessions are "untrue and irresponsible."

He expressed doubt that the Arab League, representing 40 million Arabs, would recommend economic sanctions against the United States.

He said pressure on him from other Arab leaders to oppose American interests have been "heavy but unavailing."

King Ibn Saud then declared that this country has not declared a "holy war" against the Palestine Jews, although "the actualities of war exist."

The king accused Russia of supporting the U. N. partition plan solely to drive a wedge between the Arab world and America.

He asserted that communism is infiltrating the Middle East, but he said it is finding no room to expand in Saudi Arabia.

Cold Front Proves Flop

That fat black "cold front" which has been hanging around upper Florida without visible means of support for the past few days came further south yesterday afternoon. According to our Drew Field agents the big chill from the north passed over St. Petersburg about 3:30 p. m.—virtually unnoticed.

As a cold front, it was a flop, a fizzle and a complete bust. Only indication of the shift was a gradual drop in the mercury, plus a fat 100 per cent humidity reading at 4:30 p. m. which puddled up into a feeble drizzle a few hours later.

Latest data on the un-cold front indicates that it has become stationary south of the city—but as J. Thundersquall Drip so eloquently put it:

"It can go where it wants to go and do what it wants—I don't care. You could make a colder front yourself wit' a melted ice cube an' a palm-leaf fan. Cold front, phooey!"

(NOTE: Drip's humble apologies to the Bird & Tree Circle member who called him last night to ask if it would rain. In making a negative reply, The Times expert fell back on the Tampa Bureau for support and missed.)

CONCILIATORY POSE DROPPED BY RUSSIANS

LONDON — (AP) — A savage Russian attack against the United States, Britain and France last night reduced Big Four relations to the lowest point since the war and threatened an almost immediate breakup of the London session of the foreign ministers' conference.

The most acrimonious foreign ministers' meeting ever held ended abruptly, official observers said, when British Foreign Secretary Bevin termed Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's attack on allied policies in Germany "insults and abuse." U. S. Secretary of State Marshall declared the attack made it "difficult to inspire respect for the dignity of the Soviet Union."

Molotov

Conference sources said Molotov tossed his conciliatory attitude of the past few days out the window of sedate Lancaster house and launched an hour-long attack.

HE ACCUSED the western powers of making "enormous profits" out of Germany through "hidden reparations." He also declared that the United States, Britain and France were trying to "perpetuate the division of Germany" as part of a strategic plan to employ their occupation zones against what he described as the "democratic countries of Europe."

The sudden unexpected verbal assault by Molotov came during a conference showdown on reparations and made it clear that the "cold war" for Europe would be fought out on the basis of the Marshall Plan and the so-called "Molotov Plan" of co-operation among the Soviet-dominated planned economy states of the east.

A bridge between the two through Big Four agreements on Germany appeared completely impossible following the meeting's developments. There were indications that Molotov's switch from conciliation to an uncompromising offensive had come at the direction of the Kremlin.

SOVIET SOURCES indicated Molotov had torn up a speech prepared for use Thursday and made a completely new one. The official Soviet monitor usually releases Molotov's speeches during or just after a conference session but it was without a text three hours afterward last night.

Before yesterday's session Soviet sources had circulated a report that Molotov might offer to defer Russia's $10,000,000,000 reparations claim, if the conference would agree to immediate establishment of central economic and administrative agencies for Germany.

A large section of the American delegation was said to be urging Marshall to break off the conference on the grounds that it was only a sounding board for Soviet propaganda and for attacks against the United States.

It was understood there was a faction in the British delegation urging similar action.

The French with some understatement described the conference as having reached a "crisis."

AMERICAN briefing officers quoted Bevin as saying of Molotov's whole attack:

"I would only like to say I have been expecting arguments about the proposals on reparations we made in our statement at Moscow (last spring). We thought our proposal would be studied, but we did not dream that we would have inflicted insults and abuse on our countries in the manner that we have had this afternoon.

"I know that the British people and the commonwealth will resent it . . . I think Mr. Molotov should have wound up his speech by thanking us for so long listening to him."

Price Control Plan Outlined To Congress

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach yesterday outlined to congress specific proposals for price ceilings and roll backs as Republicans debated whether or not to place their own anti-inflation bill before the house Monday on a "take it or leave it" basis.

Schwellenbach

Schwellenbach sent the proposed price control legislation to the house banking committee with a note saying he will submit a wage control bill shortly.

But Chairman Wolcott, Republican of Michigan told reporters definitely there will be no action at the special session on the Schwellenbach bill, or the one drafted by Secretary of Commerce Harriman asking priority and allocation authority.

SCHWELLENBACH said price controls would be limited to those commodities that: Basically affect the cost of living or agricultural and industrial production, and those "essential to effectuation of the foreign policy of the United States."

The labor secretary declared a maximum price ceiling should be applied only if the commodity is found to be in short supply, and its price has risen unreasonably beyond that prevailing in June, 1947. Under his proposals price ceilings could not be lower than the highest price prevailing between June 11 and June 18, 1947, except in cases where there have been decreased costs or market declines.

Republicans apparently got their signals crossed on how their bill will be presented to the house Monday. Rep. Allen, Republican of Illinois, chairman of the rules committee, told reporters it would be offered on a "take it or leave it" basis that would bar any attempt to amend it to include the administration proposals.

Adoption of the "no amendments" procedure requires a two-thirds vote to suspend the house rules.

Allen claimed the Republicans had the necessary two-thirds, saying: "A lot of southern Democrats will vote with us. They don't like controls and ration stamps."

HOUSE Democratic Leader Rayburn, of Texas, replied that it was an "inexcusable strong arm method to deny the membership of the house the right to present amendments on a bill of this importance."

Speaker Martin, Republican of Massachusetts said "nothing had been decided" about the GOP strategy and Wolcott told newsmen it probably won't be decided "until we look the situation over during the weekend."

While looking over that situation, the Republicans also must look over the overall party economic program, of which the Wolcott bill is only a part. Chairman Taft, Republican of Ohio, of the senate Republican policy committee refused to reveal details of the long-range anti-inflation manifesto, which is based on voluntary action, until house GOP leaders and all Republican senators had weighed it.

Senator Flanders, Republican of Vermont, was reported to have told the policy committee that although he intends to vote for the Wolcott bill he feels it does not deal directly enough with price problems now confronting the nation. He reportedly told the committee that if something is not done to check "the immediate critical inflationary situation" there will be reasonable justification for demands for wage increases. Flanders also was reported to have pressed his call for a "realistic" voluntary meat rationing program.

Only Eight Of 20 Aboard Crashed Plane Identified

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (AP) — Air forces investigators yesterday studied the explosion-twisted, burned remains of a C-47 plane which carried 20 persons to their death near here Thursday night.

But they had few clues and one investigator privately expressed the opinion the crash would go down in the books as "cause unknown."

Meanwhile, the grisly task of identifying the mutilated dead and notifying their relatives went on. The names of eight men had been announced 22 hours after the crash.

They were:

Maj. Spofford E. Avery, 29, executive office of first guided missiles battalion, Brewer, Maine.

T/4 L. H. Lancaster, 19, Beardstown, Ill.

T/4 D. Ames (age and address unknown. Discharged and records forwarded to Washington).

T/4 R. L. May, 19, Hazleton, Pa.

T/5 E. R. Bamford, 19, Easton, Pa.

Cpl. J. J. Maxwell, 18, Maspeth, L. I., N. Y.

Pfc. J. J. Efshaken, 20, New York city.

Pfc. Carlo Trunzo, 18, Tarentum, Pa.

At Memphis, Capt. C. C. Carmichael, unit public relations officer, said two of the dead were:

Sgt. E. H. Fleming, whose father, Ernest D. Fleming, resides in Newburg, N. Y.

Pvt. J. Taylor, son of Mrs. Marion H. Taylor of Washington, D. C. He said Taylor was a Negro.

Col. Donald K. Fargo, commanding officer of the unit, said the home base of the C-47 — military version of the 21-passenger DC-3 airliner — was at Aberdeen, Md., and that it was en route from El Paso, Texas.

The big craft burst into flames with a flash seen two miles away shortly after dark Thursday night, ripped through a wooded section and crashed into a hillside some two miles from the municipal airport.

Bits of the plane, a parachute and flesh were scattered over a quarter-mile path and some dangled in trees.

Helicopter Braves Storm To Rescue Plane-Injured

WESTOVER FIELD, Mass.—(AP) — Braving a snowstorm, a helicopter yesterday completed the hazardous rescue of six American soldiers who survived the crash of a big military transport in Labrador wastelands.

All six — none seriously injured — were flown to a hospital at Goose Bay and preparations were being made to remove by air the bodies of the 23 other army men killed in the crash.

Even before completion of the rescue, a report was received by investigators that a power failure apparently sent the air transport command plane plunging into the earth at a speed of near 100 miles an hour Tuesday midnight.

Lt. Col. Harry Bullis of Portland, Mich., who was thrown clear when the ship struck, was quoted as saying the plane "seemed to come almost to a stop in mid-air" before plunging.

After emergency treatment at the small RCAF hospital in Goose Bay, four of the rescued — Lt. J. M. Bickley, Abilene, Tex., Sgt. Joseph Stefanowicz, Warren, Ohio, and Cpl. Gene L. Harter, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Cpl. John Shaner, Horseheads, N. Y., took off for Walter Reed hospital, Washington, about 1 p. m.

The two other survivors — Lt.-Col. Bullis and Tech. Sgt. William J. Bujak of Philadelphia — remained behind. The reason they did not make the trip was not given.

Only meager reports were received at the ATC's Atlantic division headquarters here of the rescue operation — but it was carried out in 18-degrree temperature with snow falling.

U. S. Judge Jails Draft Dodger

NEW YORK —(INS)—A handsome idol of Mexican films who acted in the motion picture "The Fugitive" while actually a fugitive from his New York draft board was sentenced to 5 1/2 years in prison yesterday by Federal Judge Bright.

Walter Henry Ward Jr., whom the government charged retreated south of the border "to hide out instead of serving in the American armed forces," appeared in 150 Mexican and two American films.

The U. S. attorney's office said he was arrested by the FBI at the home of his sister, in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn last October, after he re-entered the United States on a forged Mexican birth certificate.

Pauley Denies Trading Aided By Inside Tips

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Edwin W. Pauley, defending his grain market speculations as "the good old American way," testified yesterday that he "did rather well" in trading this year—but not through information gained as a government official.

Summoned to Capitol hill on the heels of charges that administration "insiders" have profiteered in foodstuffs speculation, Pauley asserted he has rid himself of nine-tenths of his holdings in commodities since Sept. 3 when he became special assistant to the Secretary of the Army Royall.

Asked how much money he had put up to acquire the holdings, he said "something less than a million dollars."

HIS LIQUIDATION operations were carried out in accordance with an agreement with Royall, he told the senate appropriations committee. As a result, he said, he is "currently more than $100,000 worse off than if I had retained the grain." His transactions have been "perfectly proper and ethical," he declared.

On the senate floor, Senator Williams, Republican of Delaware, assailed the administration as "trying to manipulate the market." He said purchases by government officials should be scrutinized to learn "whether they coincided or came a few days before (crop) reports of the agriculture department."

His advice to investigators came as house leaders, too, prepared to follow up charges made by Harold E. Stassen, candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, that "insiders" in the government have speculated in food markets and caused prices to rise.

THE FAST-MOVING Pauley investigation, plowing through a full morning session of questions also developed:

1. An assertion by Pauley that President Truman could not have known — and neither could Secretary of Agriculture Anderson — that Pauley was operating in commodity markets when they blasted at speculators as raising the cost of living. On Oct. 5, Truman assailed the "greed of speculators who gamble on what may lie ahead in our commodity markets."

2. A promise by Pauley to lay before the committee the record of his market dealings, including complete accounts of his tradings in grains and other foods during the time he was a special ambassador for President Truman in a reparations study abroad.

3. Pauley said he had been trading in commodity futures since about 1940.

4. Pauley, one-time treasurer of the Democratic national committee, testified he consulted Senator Taft, Republican of Ohio, last August about the possibility of winning confirmation for appointment in the army department. His present post does not require confirmation. Pauley collided violently last year with a senate committee when he was nominated as undersecretary of the navy. He withdrew before the committee acted.

Taft, chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, told reporters Pauley had gone to Cincinnati to see him about what Republican reaction would be to confirming him as assistant army secretary. Taft said the Republican committee "could not go along" on such an appointment.

Unidentified Wanderer Found In Skies But There's Little Known About Comets

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An unidentified wanderer — a comet with a trail 75,000,000 miles long — has been observed in Australia. And scholars everywhere have shown polite interest.

Which shows how much times have changed.

Until mankind learned about them, a comet was about as welcome as a tax collector with the smallpox.

FOR MAN used to study the skies for heavenly tips on his earthly affairs, as astrologers still do. And a comet, barging in unexpectedly, usually was interpreted to mean famine, war, plague and assorted disasters.

Dr. Charles Greeley Abbot, of the Smithsonian Institution, is one of the world's leading authorities on the solar system. But he told a reporter yesterday we still have a lot to learn about comets.

Partly it's because they take in so much territory. They have been known to approach as near as 90,000 miles to the sun. There are guesses they may wander almost as far as the nearest fixed star, or 25 millions of millions of miles.

This takes time, even for a comet rattling along at 383 miles a second, which is par for the comet course.

The result is that some comets may come within seeing distance only once in a million years. This is too long even for Dr. Abbot, who is 75.

SOME EXPERTS think the Australian visitor may be Encke's comet.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says old J. F. Encke, who did the research on the comet that was to bear his name, figured it needed only 3.3 years to complete the circuit. This is a record holder among comets.

Encke worried because his comet, winding up its millions of miles trip, came in two and a half hours late. This may be good for a railroad, but for a comet it's positively irresponsible.

Australians needn't feel uppity about their comet. There are 120,000 of them, of which only 300 come around in any one century.

The word comet, by the way, comes from the Greek and Latin, meaning hair. The ancients thought the comet's tail looked like hair streaming behind in the wind. Pretty thought, isn't it?

Dr. Abbot says the tail follows the comet as it approaches the sun, and then swings around in front as it leaves.

"The pressure of light does it," he explained.

THE HEAD of the comet may be nothing more than meteor-like objects held together by gas. The tail apparently is mostly gas. For —

"I once got up at daylight to measure the substance of Halley's comet," Dr. Abbot said. "The tail stuck up over the horizon so it was easy. But the light came right through. The tail didn't stop a bit of it."

In short, comets may be like some politicians' speeches: Lots of flash, but little real substance.

Petrillo Music Edict Assailed

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The house labor committee yesterday branded Music Czar James C. Petrillo as a "dictator" and "tyrant" and submitted to congress a five-point legislative program to curb him and his American Federation of Musicians (AFL).

In a blistering report which accused Petrillo of ruling over "a small kingdom within our republic," the committee called for "diligent prosecution" of the union chief for alleged violation of the Lea anti-feather-bedding act. It also urged the justice department to consider whether Petrillo has violated the anti-trust laws.

The report was written by Rep. Carroll D. Kearns, Republican of Pennsylvania, himself a member of Petrillo's union. Kearns headed a subcommittee which made a seventh month investigation of Petrillo and his union.

The Lea act is aimed specifically at Petrillo's practice of requiring radio stations to hire a given number of standby musicians regardless whether they are needed. Constitutionality of the law has been upheld by the supreme court.

In addition to its other changes, the committee accused Petrillo of blocking the development of television and FM broadcasting and of circumventing the civil rights of musicians' bookers and agents.

But it centered its fire primarily around Petrillo's decision to halt musical recordings at the end of the year. This threat, it said, violates the right to work — a "sacred, God-given prerogative."

Miss Hill, Friend Of Slain Hoodlum, Taken To Hospital

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) —Chief of Police Earl O'Clair said yesterday he was "satisfied" that a woman being treated in a hospital here for an overdose of sleeping powder is Virginia Hill, heiress sweetheart of the rubbed-out gang leader, Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel.

O'Clair sent detectives to the hospital after receiving a report of the 25-year-old woman's presence and of a visit to the hospital by three men reputed to be her bodyguards.

The police chief said his investigation had caused him to place in his records a report that Virginia Hill, girl friend of Siegel, had been taken to the hospital Wednesday after being found unconscious on the floor of her quarters at a swank winter resort near here.

At the hospital, Miss Hill gave her name as Mrs. Norma Hall.

She told one newspaper reporter, "I don't like newspapers," and refused to see any others.

Three special nurses were in attendance on Miss Hill.

Upon her arrival at the hospital she deposited $1,200 in the hospital safe.

At the winter resort she left a robin's egg blue convertible coupe.

Siegel was shot to death in gangland style June 20 while sitting on a couch in Miss Hill's Beverly Hills home. He was the operator of the luxurious Flamingo club at Las Vegas, Nev., and was reputed to have underworld connections along the Pacific coast.

After the slaying Miss Hill went to France. While there she was admitted to a hospital for treatment for an overdose of sleeping pills. She said she feared that gangsters were on her trail to kill her.

When the men described by O'Clair as her bodyguards entered the hospital about midnight, they told nurses they were private detectives.

They told a supervisor that a good friend of the patient had been killed recently and that she was in a highly nervous state. They frightened nurses by saying that the "Chicago underworld" was after her.

Pepper And Holland Introduce Tax Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senators, Pepper and Holland, Florida Democrats, introduced yesterday legislation to permit married couples in all states to divide their incomes for income tax purposes. Several other bills are pending to extend community property state privileges to all states.

Another bill by Pepper would permit school teachers to deduct from income taxes as necessary expenses any funds spent in attending summer schools.

Lawmaker Raps Deal In Cars In Florida

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Rep. Ross Rizley, Republican of Oklahoma, yesterday called for dismissal "at once" of three top officials of the war assets administration who allegedly admitted they got automobiles through the influence of a dealer in surplus property.

Earlier the three officials had told their story before a house executive expenditures subcommittee which Rizley heads. The dealer was identified as A. I. Lodwick, head of Lodwick Aircraft Industries, Lakeland, Fla.

"I think . . . you all ought to be fired out of WAA at once," Rizley said. "It's not enough to say that you didn't intend to do anything wrong."

THE THREE WAA officials were James A. Mollison, associate administrator of the agency, John H. Carey, deputy administrator of the aircraft components and electronics disposal division, and Herschel V. Benedict, associate deputy administrator of the same division.

The automobile story was initially unfolded by Carey who said he heard early this year that Lodwick was able to get automobiles. He said the dealer agreed to get a four-door Cadillac for him but that it has not yet been delivered.

Committee Counsel Edmond Donohue brought out that Lodwick had received $28,000,000 worth of aircraft parts — more than any other company in the Florida area. Under the surplus property disposal setup, an agent gets a 40 per cent commission on everything he sells.

"I believe the records will show the wisdom of making those allocations," Carey replied. "He is by far our most aggressive agent and our job is to get the property into the hands of the people who want it as quickly as possible."

Jewish Forces Attack Seven Arab Centers

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Veteran Jewish underground fighters went on the warpath from Haifa to Hebron in a series of bloody clashes with Arabs and last night the death toll from 13 days of bitter communal fighting in Palestine neared 200.

Jewish forces struck at seven places — Haifa, Yazur, Gaza, Shafat, Tireh, Ramle and in Jerusalem itself — on this Moslem Sabbath.

Claiming responsibility for five of these operations the underground Irgun Zvai Leumi also threatened new attacks on the British army "if the British continue to interfere and permit Arabs to import arms from abroad."

THE DAY'S disorders throughout Palestine brought death to 24 persons, 20 of them Arabs. An Associated Press tabulation showed 197 persons had been killed in the Holy Land since the United Nations general assembly voted for partition. The toll for the entire Middle East stood at 313.

As violence continued in the Holy Land, Arabs throughout the Middle East awaited word from Cairo where ministers of Arab nations are attending a "council of war" to prevent partition of Palestine.

Organizers of the Arab "people's army" continued signing new recruits following the Arab League's announcement that all fighting against partition would be up to this force until the British evacuate Palestine on or before Aug. 1.

IN MOSQUES ranging in size from tiny mud hutted ones to the grand mosque of Omar in Jerusalem, Moslem holy men called for unity and preparedness. Moslem faithful faced Mecca and prayed to Allah for help to keep the Jews from forming a state in Palestine.

Jewish sources, both public and underground, said there was maneuvering going on in the ranks of Jewish fighters for positions of power in the projected Jewish state, and possibly accounted for Irgun's taking a hand against the Arabs.

These sources listed the following factions:

1. Haganah leaders, associated with the constituted Jewish leadership, who have been holding to a restrained policy of "defense only" in the current strife with the Arabs.

2. Menachem Beigin, Polish militarist who commands Irgun Zvai Leumi and who is described by more conservative elements as aspiring to political leadership of the new state.

3. Radical nationalists who run the Stern gang and who are feared to want a behind-the-scenes dictatorial role in the new state.

Communist Strike Against Italian Government Fails

ROME — (UP) — The two-day-old Communist-led Roman general strike against the government collapsed last night after sweeping police counter-attacks and a determined back-to-work movement apparently had doomed the walkout to failure.

The executive commission of the chamber of labor, including Communist Labor Boss Giuseppe di Vittorio and fellow-traveling Socialist Leader Pietro Nenni, voted early last night to end the strike at midnight.

The chamber leaders acted after a series of conferences with Christian Democratic Premier Alcide de Gasperi and other government leaders had made it clear that they could not achieve the goals set in the chamber's ultimatum to the government.

The cabinet made several concessions to labor in the strike settlement — mainly measures aimed at easing unemployment — but the end of the strike was considered a major victory for the government.

Decisive action by peace forces — including the mobilization of 90,000 troops and police to crush strike activity — made the walkout less effective than some of the Communists' anti-government campaigns in the provinces, and far less of a threat than the "strike war" recently stifled in France.

The unwillingness of most Roman workers to take part in the strike crippled the effort severely. The work stoppage was totally effective yesterday only in the smaller factories of the province.

The streets were black early yesterday with crowds hurrying to their regular jobs after the government had organized makeshift "bus lines" to ease the load on the crippled public transport system.

France Defends Expulsion Of 19 Russian Citizens

PARIS — (AP) — The French government, just given a new parliamentary vote of approval over Communist opposition, told Russia last night its recent expulsion of 19 Soviet citizens was legal.

In a reply to a Russian protest handed to the Soviet embassy, the foreign office said the expulsion was carried out according to international law and usage and without mistreatment of any of those involved.

Shortly before the note was made public, the national assembly sided with Premier Robert Schuman in voting to close a hot debate on criticism of the government voiced by Lt. Col. Raymond Marquie, chief of the French repatriation mission expelled from Russia this week. The government got 411 votes on its move to end the debate against 183 cast in opposition by Communist deputies.

In Paris Thursday, an aide to Veterans Minister Francois Mitterand said Marquie was a long-time Communist. He said that the repatriation official wanted to stay in Russia but that if he returned to France and his statements were confirmed he would be put out of the army.

In yesterday's debate, the government blasted what it called Marquie's "inadmissable attacks."

Panama Students Protest Treaty

PANAMA CITY, Panama — (UP)—Mounted police using tear gas bombs, clubs and sabers, yesterday broke up a students' demonstration against ratification by the national assembly of an agreement leasing to the United States 14 armed bases on Panamanian territory.

The students gathered before the national assembly building in defiance of an order by the mayor of the city prohibiting the scheduled demonstration.

Large police detachments were assigned to enforce the mayor's ruling and shortly after the students massed, they began dispersing them.

Soviets Threaten Japanese Treaty

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Russia was reported yesterday to be threatening a deadlock on reparations from Japan while demanding $10,000,000,000 from Germany.

Diplomatic informants said the Soviet delegate has served notice on the 11-nation Far Eastern commission that a United States proposal, which would trim down Russia's share of any war indemnity from Japan, is unacceptable to Moscow.

A majority of the other nations represented on the commission have accepted the proposal. It was submitted last month in an effort to break a 10-month stalemate on the method of distributing the industrial plants and other reparations items to be exacted from Japan as compensation for her wartime aggression.

The reparations question is under consideration by the commission, apart from the Japanese peace treaty.

Power Pole Crash Proves He's Tough

TULAE, Cal. —(UP)— Highway patrolmen still don't know how he lived through it, but they had him, alive, in the county jail for proof.

Jose Vasquez, 25, was speeding along the highway when his car left the road. It leaped seven feet into the air, according to a sober witness, and struck a power pole at that height.

The car and pole burned. Vasquez was uninjured.

He was arrested for drunken driving.

MERRY-GO-ROUNDS, BEER, FINGER BOWLS

Truman's Little OPA Plan Gets Bad Eye From Solons

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Let us consider today merry-go-rounds, beer, finger-bowls, dog biscuits and the fact that congress is taking a dim view of President Truman's scheme for a peace-time, little OPA.

OTHMAN

All over Capitol Hill these days Mr. Truman's helpers are scurrying to assorted committee rooms. They are sitting in hot seats, trying to explain to the satisfaction of the lawmakers the President's hopes of feeding Europe and also cutting the cost of living at home.

You can look at their worried expressions and watch 'em polish their steamy eye-glasses and see they're not doing so well. Some of their inquisitors are luke warm and some are down-right antagonistic. And for a fair sample of what's going on, drop in with me on a judiciary sub-committee headed by Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

SEN. COOPER & CO. had on their green carpet the underlings from the Department of Commerce who want to ration steel and hang on to their control over tin, antimony (a metal which goes into tooth-paste tubes and storage batteries) and cinchona bark. This latter when peeled off a tree in the East Indies and boiled down comes up quinine.

If tin is so scarce, Sen. Cooper wondered, how come they allowed it to be wasted in cans for coffee, engine oil, dog food and beer? They could stop that if they wanted, couldn't they?

H. B. McCoy, director of the office of materials distribution and a man nearly as big in size as his title, stuttered a little at that. He said he and his experts hadn't realized tin was going to be so scarce.

Take beer, the senator continued. A beer can is plated with tin, but mostly it is made of steel. How much steel did the beer can makers send to America's trash baskets this year? About 192,000 tons, McCoy figured.

THAT OUGHT TO MAKE a good many freight cars in itself, Sen. Cooper said. He wondered how the commerce department figured on saving steel, if congress allowed the president's plan to become law. McCoy said by stopping the manufacture of non-essential things. Well, said the senator, what things?

McCoy read from a lengthy list: Merry-go-rounds, finger-bowls, shoe-scrapers, cocktail shakers, gambling devices. Hundreds of such items, he said.

All right, said the senator. And where would he use this steel? McCoy said he'd channel (his word) steel to the freight car, farm tractor and oil pipe makers. Sen. Cooper said how much extra metal did they need?

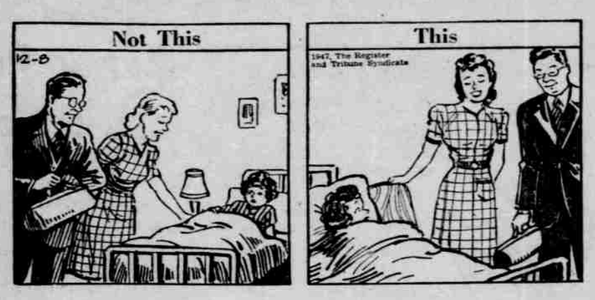
McCoy said he wasn't certain. Why not? He hadn't made a survey. Why hadn't he?

Because, said he, congress cut his appropriation and he didn't have enough men to make the count.

Sen. Cooper glared at him owlishly through thick lenses and asked him had he talked to the freight car, tractor and pipe folks about their needs? McCoy said he hadn't really, but he did hold a conference with the steel makers last week. They said (and he quoted 'em) that if they had more freight cars, they could make more steel.

So much for the sample. President Truman's helpers are getting similar rakings-over by numerous committees; my guess is that it'll probably take another war to outlaw steel merry-go-rounds again.

POINTS FOR PARENTS



Mother: "I was only joking when I said that I'd have the doctor cut off your thumb if you didn't stop sucking it. He isn't going to hurt you."

Mother: "Here is Dr. Brown. He likes little boys and girls and knows how to help sick children get well so they can run and play outdoors again."

Using the doctor as a disciplinary aid makes difficult the establishment of a friendly doctor-patient relationship.

Marine Borers Found To Balk At Plywood

ATLANTIC CITY—Marine borers will not cross the glue line in the plywood used in boat construction, Donald F. May of the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers here yesterday to be his belief.

In marine parts examined by him, borers that have come in contact with the glue line in laminated hulls have turned and followed directly down the path of one lamination. It suggests a method of keeping all borers within the outside layer of a laminated hull, thus solving a serious problem of the marine industry.

In addition to the construction of vessel hulls of laminated wood, thin sheets glued together with alternate layers having their grain at right angles, he described the use of laminated wood construction for tanks for water, acids and other liquids.

There is virtually no limit to what can be laminated, he said, and the most difficult objects are usually the ones that should be laminated. For marine uses, it has been found that the only types of glue suitable are low-temperature phenol, resorcinol and melamine resin.

When Silence Is Golden

We'll hazard a guess that more women in Florida have taken an interest in politics this week than anytime in the state's history.

They're really worked up and not about any of the big issues of the Great Debate of '48.

Before they cool off and before the next legislature is over, we'll bet that Ethel N. Manning, director of the state board of beauty culture, will wish that she had taken the advice of the old sage who said "silence is golden."

Her decree that women, with special mention of college girls, cannot give hairdos and manicures in the precincts of their own homes or dormitories has stirred up a real storm. People who didn't know there was such an animal as a beauty culture board are now asking how it gets that way, why is such a board and how can we get rid of it.

This is not only local to Pinellas county where indignant women have expressed themselves in no uncertain terms.

The Ocala Star-Banner, for instance, observes:

"It is understandable why the 'profession' of beauty culture should be protected against untrained persons practicing the art, on a commercial scale; why the law should set up certain requirements and efficiencies for those who perfect themselves in the art of beauty culture and practices that are to the adornment of women. But, it would seem, that Miss Manning in her interpretation of the law has strayed rather far afield.

"From this distance it appears that the statement will raise such a howl of protest on the home front that there will be an insistent demand by the fairer sex for repeal or modification of the beauty board law, and that no candidate for the legislature will have the hardihood to show his head above the tall weeds unless he pledges to work for modification or repeal of the statute which threatens to regiment Florida womanhood."

The attorney general quickly called the director's edict "absurd," but the damage already has been done.

We doubt that the professional beauty parlor will suffer. Beautifying the feminine figure, face and hair is a business of tremendous proportions; it will continue despite home gadgets for the simple reason that it has brought to all women a sense of luxury in being waited upon and fussed over, a chance to get away for a couple of hours from household drudgeries and chores. And who, in all this great land, will deny them that?

But, in enjoying that right, these citizens also don't like anyone telling them what they can and can't do in their own homes.

'No' Policy Won't Win For GOP

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

NEW YORK — A year ago, after the congressional elections, Republican victory in 1948 seemed a foregone conclusion. Six months ago, that victory appeared nearly as certain.

However, traveling through the country, I have had the strong impression that the Republicans are determined to throw away that victory if they possibly can. The Republican pronouncements that come out of Washington have very little to do with the prevailing mood of the country.

CHILDS

The chief reason, it seems to me, is that the spokesman for the party in Washington is Sen. Robert A. Taft. Or, rather, Taft is increasingly identified by the public as the official voice of the party.

Sen. Taft is a "no" sayer. He says no by temperament and predilection. Because he is running for president he is more inclined than ever to say no, hoping thereby to curry the favor of opposition groups of every kind and variety.

But the country is not in a no-saying mood. The mood is one of confidence and buoyancy in spite of high prices. While there is skepticism on the score of European aid, even there the general feeling seems to be that the country is strong enough and rich enough to carry it through.

The present mood may not endure. If even higher prices produce strikes and angry strife, then perhaps the mood of the majority may coincide with the twangy, nasal, ever repeated "no" of the senator from Ohio. That would seem to be the condition on which Taft is calculating — a revulsion against the party long in power.

As of today, however, the polls reflect prevailing sentiment when they show that President Truman would defeat Sen. Taft as the Republican nominee — and by a considerable margin. Rather than any positive passion for the man in the White House, this means with many simply letting well enough alone.

Several of Sen. Taft's colleagues have tried to make clear that he is not the sole official mouthpiece of the Republican party. Senators Baldwin, Knowland, Aiken, Tobey and others have nearly as much right as Taft to speak for the GOP. They speak, of course, quite a different language. They say yes at least as often as they say no.

Taft's dominance, however, lies in the fact that his views coincide more or less closely with those of the ultra-conservative gentlemen who, through all the lean years, have paid the party's bills and kept the party organization alive. Moreover, Taft's man, B. Carroll Reece, is the party's national chairman.

These ultra-conservative gentlemen will have a great deal to say about the Republican nomination. Their real preference is for Taft. The chances that he will get the nomination seem to me to have improved in the past six months.

While professional Republicans in the south are cautious, they will say, when pressed, that Taft has the edge in that region. Having assiduously cultivated these professionals, Taft should come to the convention next June with an impressive nest-egg of southern delegates.

In Taft's favor in the south, his negative stand on a fair-employment law is cited. He is quoted as expressing doubt that a law could bring about equality of opportunity between the races. In contrast, the record of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, in obtaining adoption of a fair employment practices law in New York state, is cited to his disadvantage.

Col. Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune has named Taft as his first choice and Gen. Douglas MacArthur as his second. And the colonel will have a great deal to say about what the Illinois delegation does at Philadelphia.

These are substantial straws in the Republican wind. They can add up to the nomination of the senator from Ohio.

But whether that would mean a Republican victory, come next November, is quite another matter. Changes can occur very rapidly. One proof of that is the way in which President Truman's popularity rating has moved up and down.

Today the Taft voice has a harsh, discordant sound. It seems to identify the GOP with the negative when the country in its present temper is out to accentuate the positive.

What Other American Cities Are Doing

BIG INCREASE IN HOME OWNERSHIP. The Bureau of the Census reports 55 per cent of the dwelling places in the United States were occupied by owners in April this year. In 1940 only 44 per cent of the homes were owner-occupied. In urban areas the 1947 figure for owner-occupied homes was 48 per cent, while in rural non-farm and rural farm areas about two-thirds were in this category. Comparable figures for 1940 were: urban areas, 38 per cent owner-occupied; rural, 53 per cent. Housing shortage and rent control policies are the chief reasons for the increase.

* * *

THE RETAILERS OCCUPATION TAX produced 33.75 per cent of the revenue of the state of Illinois during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1946. The sum received was $103 million. Next largest source was motor fuel which produced $42 million.

ELECTRICITY COSTS are checked in Cumberland, Wis., by having the municipal generating plant sell its output to the distribution system, its only customer. The distribution system retails the energy to the consumers in this community of 1,600. The plant is required to produce electricity at a switchboard cost of less than 1.6 cents per kwh, a bid offered some years ago by a private utility company.

Isolationists' Crocodile Tears

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — What developed in the house of representatives in consideration of the interim aid for France, Italy and Austria is described by one astute member as a "dress rehearsal" for consideration there later of the Marshall Plan for general European recovery.

It is an apt appraisal. Much stronger opposition was rallied to the interim aid bill in the house than in the senate. It is plain now that this will be true, too, of the Marshall Plan. It might even be said that the fate of the Marshall Plan will lie in the house. Administration leaders now realize that.

The danger is not one of outright defeat — it is not believed that will occur. The danger is that the amounts asked will be so whittled down that the essential philosophy of the Marshall Plan, which is for rehabilitation of Europe rather than mere relief, may be destroyed by the same sort of tactics and arguments used by the opposition on the interim aid bill.

Those who might be called the "new isolationists" in the house accept this measure, grudgingly, on the theory that it provides money to feed people through the winter—that is, a strictly humanitarian measure. This was stressed throughout the debate. But the Marshall Plan is far more than that. And if it is cut down to nothing more than continuing straight relief, then it will not be the Marshall Plan, for the purpose of that plan is to start the machinery of production in Europe so that she can help herself and become self-sustaining in time.

The "dress rehearsal" in the house has disturbed proponents of the Marshall Plan because of the strength of the "relief" approach. That, with its humanitarian motif, can be used as camouflage behind which to destroy the real purpose of the Marshall Plan. It offers a convenient political dodge for isolationists.

There is another aspect that is disturbing. This is the repeated selfish appeal during debate to all sorts of groups in this country. The Marshall Plan is going to require sacrifices. That might as well be faced. It is going to cost billions which must be taken through continued high taxes. It is going to cause shortages.

So, during the debate, there arose the cry that money to be provided for Europe should be used to improve conditions here at home. How demagogic that is, even if persuasive, may be seen by pointing out that some of those raising this cry most bewailingly have opposed many measures offered to improve conditions for our people. It can be shown, likewise, by the fact that this congress thus far has neglected to do those same things now held up for bait to defeat the Marshall Plan. Furthermore, this congress has exhibited an inordinate preference for big special interests which have been trying to cripple programs already approved, such as veterans' housing and public power and reclamation projects.

These are crocodile tears the "new isolationists" are shedding so copiously, which is clear to anyone who has watched their legislative records through the years. But they undoubtedly will have some influence, as such demagoguery always does, at least for a time.

It is perhaps fortunate that President Truman is going to speak out soon on the Marshall Plan in a special message to congress before it recesses for Christmas. This will give him an opportunity to tell the people the true story of the Marshall Plan and what it means for all of us.

As a roaring and a ranging bear: so is a wicked ruler over the poor people.—Prov. 28.15.

TIMES PUBLIC FORUM

Difference In Opinion

Editor, The Times:

I was very much interested in your poll, "If I were Running for President," and would like to make some comments on the differences between the public's and the student's poll which gives a better picture of the trend of thought between the two, and after all, it is only a matter of a few years and these policies of the students will be in the making.

For example, they list Labor second instead of taxes as they know it also is only a question of a little time before they will be looking for employment. The public puts taxes second because on the average, the adult has made his fortune and is interested in not being taxed to death. Therefore the younger generation is not worried about taxes and puts it way down in tenth place.

Next, the student places Preparedness in third place and Agriculture in fourth. Why? The student realizes our danger from without more than the adult, and also that agriculture is the most vital necessity to our America in many forms such as health and labor in emergencies. But they also show these two before Communism, whereas the adult drops Agriculture to ninth place.

After this the youths place conservation. I assume they felt that more beneficial than Government Economy which the adults listed sixth. I believe the youths were thinking in terms of our natural resources, which by all means, if we are going by the records given us, are fast going, such as ore and oil, etc.

Again I say, the students are thinking in terms of opportunities rather than being conservative. For example, my grandfather told me years ago that even when he was a little boy in 1850, all that was spoken of was the government debt. His words were, "Don't let it worry you. It's always been that way and always will."

The students also place Education and Science in seventh and eighth places, where the older folks drop them to ninth and eleventh. And again they show the conservative angle of the older folks.

Now the students have in ninth and tenth places Prices and Taxes. I would gather by this that they are not as much interested in the prices of articles so long as results are given for preservation.

For example, the youths put Monopoly in thirteenth place while the adults have it in the twentieth or last place. Why? Well, the adults are already in the monopoly and have theirs, and that is why the youths want an open opportunity. Therefore, the youths put Labor far ahead of Taxes.

Health is the only item both agree on and Housing is fairly balanced as well as the next four, except the last, and again the conservative and protective element of pensions shows up for the public group.

To me this poll shows very plainly the contrast in thought of the two different groups. The public or really the voting people are conservative and the younger group or students lean to the liberal.

Now for the students, you have to realize that they haven't come to the age of responsibility, but they do know that money is as plentiful as honey by the bank statements, and that production and building are going at a fast pace, and consequently want this progress to continue for their safety in the economical world.

The public group shows they want security in a larger measure. But! If they get that I don't see how they can have it for less than they are paying now.

The only items that puzzle me are the wide difference between Civil Rights and State Rights by both groups.

Predicts City Will Sell Busses In Few Years

Editor, The Times:

I am writing this not because I think it will do any good but because I want to go on record with the statement that within ten years, possibly within five, the city will be advertising for some private firm to take the busses off its hands. The deficit of a transportation system using busses will be too heavy to carry. This is not just guess work but has happened almost universally where the change from street cars has been made.

Tampa changed to busses but was too wise to try to run them.

The reason for this is two fold; first, busses are too short-lived. Like automobiles, they must be traded in every few years. And besides, there will always be the same promoters who now are putting so much effort into selling busses urging the city to trade in their old "junk" (2-3 or 4 year old busses) for new, modern equipment. This adds greatly to the expense. Street cars last indefinitely. Who even remembers when the last one was bought?

Second, street cars are confined to good-paying, established routes. Knowing they would stay put, the city has built around them and they turn in a good steady profit. Busses are too flexible. Even now on my trips to the beaches, I see them running empty all through the woods in the west end of town where no one lives and where every trip means a loss of tax money. It is a well-known fact (having been published in the papers) that one line alone lost about $9,000 last year. Multiply that by about ten times and see what happens. It takes good business sense to run busses, which is a commodity the average city government is not too long on, whereas street cars, being confined to tracks, require no intelligence to keep them from straying on to money-losing routes.

A private firm will eventually take over the busses, which the city will have to sell at a loss, and cut out the routes that don't pay. Private firms can't afford to be foolish. In the end they will give us good service — probably at a slightly higher fare — and instead of a good income to help support the city, the traction company (quite possibly composed of some of those now bringing such pressure to bear on the city to make the change to busses) will be reaping the profits. And no one will be hurt except of course the taxpayers — the usual goats.

Army Brass Followed Colonel Who Tried To Safeguard Paratroopers

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Here is more about the 800 U. S. paratroopers shot down by our own troops over Sicily and the army's attempt not to rectify the error, but to punish officers who wanted to correct the causes of this tragedy.

PEARSON

One of the men who took part in this Sicilian airborne infantry operation and was lucky enough to live through it was Lt. Col. David Laux. Afterward, he directed his energies toward making sure that future army transports carrying paratroopers were equipped with self sealing gasoline tanks so they could not be shot down so easily by anti-aircraft fire. A transport carrying paratroopers must necessarily fly low and slow; therefore, it is an easy target from the ground, no matter who is firing. And the planes shot down over Sicily had no self-sealing tanks, armor plate or any other protection whatsoever.

However, when Laux was opposed on better protection for these planes, he finally wrote a letter direct to Secretary of War Stimson, who turned the letter over to one of the officers opposing Laux on self-sealing tanks — Gen. Barney Giles. And Giles immediately ordered Laux to Alaska.

A day or two later, after Col. Laux had arrived in Alaska, Giles followed him up with an amazing 600-word telegram, which, if congress ever gets around to investigate, would be revealing evidence.

Gen. Giles telegraphed Gen. Dale V. Gaffney at Nome, Alaska, directing him to secure from Col. Laux all reports, papers and letters relative to self-sealing tanks and paratrooper transports. The telegram also asked that Laux authorize the air corps in Washington to pick up any papers in Laux' home pertaining to the protection of paratrooper planes.

Too Tough For Barney

By this time Gen. Gaffney smelled a rat. And being a tough Irishman with a son who was in a troop-carrier outfit, he got on the telephone and proceeded to bawl out Gen. Giles for sending Col. Laux to Alaska.

"When I want any officers of lieutenant colonel rank up here, I'll make them myself," he said. "You don't need to concern yourself with sending them to me."

When Giles remonstrated, Gaffney shot back:

"Don't give me any of that, Barney. What's the matter? Has Laux got something on you?"

Thus, Col. Laux, the man who tried to prevent future mistakes in the army, sat out the rest of the war in Nome, Alaska, nearest point to Siberia.

Meanwhile, the army had searched his files, and frankly admitted they wanted to burn all his reports, letters, etc., which demanded self-sealing tanks in troop-carrying planes. Laux managed to keep one copy of his letter to Stimson, however—the letter recently published in this column.

In this letter, Col. Laux told the secretary of war that there had been "criminal negligence" in regard to troop-carrying transports and that he, Laux, "was prepared to prove it."

However, no investigation was ever made. Meanwhile, Brig. Gen. "Mike" Dunn, who was reduced in rank when he protested army failures, three times was later recommended for promotion by the navy. He has never been promoted. Nor has the army done anything about some of the high-ranking officers who still run the air corps and whose gambling with people's lives is probably worse than Gen. Bennett Meyers' gambling with other people's money.

Quite a few good young officers are now getting recognition in the army and are doing A-1 jobs. But when it comes to ousting those responsible for tragic errors, the old brass hat protective association still operates.

Merry-Go-Round

When Chuck Luckman held his first conference as food czar, one of his severest hecklers was Izzy Stone of PM. When Chuck Luckman bowed out as food czar, Izzy Stone was one of many who came around to congratulate him on the swell job he had done. . . The Luckman Food Committee served without salary and with most of them paying their own expenses. . . A colonel went to the barbershop in the Pentagon to get a haircut. Seventeen people waited ahead of him. After a long wait he was about to get into the barber's chair when a general walked in. "You're next," said the barber. . . Then three other generals walked in; all got their haircuts ahead of the colonel. It doesn't pay for anyone less than a general to get his hair cut in the Pentagon barbershop.

History Teacher Truman

John Dean, a 16-year-old high-school student of Charleston, W. Va., who recently won an essay contest on what place organized labor holds in a democracy, called at the White House recently, accompanied by Senator Harley Kilgore and Eugene Carter, president of the West Virginia State Federation of Labor.

And when the youngster informed Truman that he was a student at Stonewall Jackson high school in Charleston, it caused the president to drop an interesting bit of American history.

"Coming from a school with a name like that," he said, "it's rather appropriate for you to be the winner of an essay contest on democracy. Stonewall Jackson was a great man and a great leader.

"Young man, do you realize that when Stonewall Jackson was your age, sixteen, he walked all the way from Charleston to Washington and sat on the steps of the secretary of war until he was given an appointment to the military academy at West Point?"

Young Dean said this was news to him, but he planned to tell his classmates all about it.

Good Citizen Quiz

Q. Has the food shortage caused any appreciable increase in the number of cases of tuberculosis in this country?

A. Not so far, according to Dr. Edgar Mayer, of Denver, who recently made a survey of the situation for the National Medical Advisory board of the National Jewish hospital. Dr. Mayer attributed a big increase in the year 1935 to malnutrition because of unemployment during the depression.

* * *

Q. What is the cause of the increase in the number of dependent children receiving financial aid through the state-federal programs?

A. The Federal Security agency attributes the rise from August 1945 to August 1947 to the increase in the cost of living, and to loss of employment —particularly of women.

* * *

Q. In what area is the problem of aid to dependent children most serious?

A. The FSA reports the highest increase, 118.7% in the District of Columbia. Florida had an increase of 109%; New York, 107.8%; Hawaii, 104.4. Delaware's increase was less than 10%; North Dakota, 13%; Illinois, 16.6%. The average for the nation was a little over 50%.

(From the Columbus, Ohio Dispatch)

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Times attempts to express a vigorous progressive editorial policy. We publish this Loyal Opposition to stimulate democratic debate so that our readers may be better able to make up their minds on the issues.

There's an old truth which our international spenders might recall. It is that gratitude is really expressed in anticipation of favors not yet received; almost never for favors already granted. Certainly the Chinese government, if its vice president's words have any meaning, reveals the regard it has for the multiplied millions this country has poured into China and shows that gratitude from China may be dependent upon how much more the Chinese government can extract from the American people.

Sun Fo, vice president of China, has dismissed the proposed additional $300,000,000 of U. S. aid to China as "a drop in the bucket." Said he, in noting sourly the extent of U. S. aid to Europe, "I've always had a hidden suspicion that American friendship was not dependable."

The dependableness of American friendship is here placed on a basis of how regularly and in what amount gifts from America are forthcoming. Sun Fo says nothing new in human or international relations. Indeed, he states a great truth by indirection but it is a truth which the professional givers-away of American wealth and resources evidently refuse to believe.

Sun Fo believes China must work out its own salvation "instead of depending upon American charity," a judgment in which we heartily concur but which we find at variance with his contemptuous opinion of the 300 million dollars projected for his country. A "drop in the bucket" it is unlikely therefore that many times that amount would do any good and many times that amount exceeds the capacity of this nation, with its profligate underwriting of nation after nation over the earth, to afford.

Well might the words of Sun Fo be kept in mind. What he says as a Chinese is not an attitude peculiar to the Orient but the attitude of all recipients of our largesse.

INSIDE LABOR

Pro-Communist Elements Busy In Many Unions

By VICTOR RIESEL

If you were to treat the pro-Comie crowd as they treat their opponents in unions the comrades control, you'd have to slug them from behind, break their jaws, smash their reputations, question their sanity, impugn their ability to be decent, persecute them while they try to earn bread for their families, and expel them from unions for daring to oppose the ruling clique.

All this and more the lefties have done in American unions—using the very technique which the professionally trained Comie agitators are using today in France and Italy.

It's happening every day. While their friends scream that the poor comrades are losing their civil liberties, the very same lefties are slugging, and expelling and threatening new violence.

Last week at the CIO sailors meeting hall, after a truly giant lefty broke the jaw of an anti-Communist speaker—in the middle of his talk—the goon was pushed out by the cops. As he was "led" past the union treasurer, little Hedley Stone, the slugger snarled:

"You're my meat. You're next, and tell Joe (Curran, union president) we'll get him, too."

That's the new left wing technique in the National Maritime Union—violence, threats, jaw-breaking, slugging from behind, almost anything just to keep control of large sections of the seafarers' outfit which supplies much of the manpower for the ships that will carry Marshall Plan food and coal for strike-bound Europe. It's the dirtiest double-play in labor history.

Why don't those who get sentimental over civil liberties for such goons, save some of that slush for the millions abroad who'll go hungry because we do give the strong arm tribe here the civil liberty to be uncivilized.

AND YOU HEAR about civil liberties for the lefty mob in the CIO Electrical Union—now the largest and most important pro-Commie operating base in America.

Just how much civil liberty does the pro-Communist leadership of that over-tolerated union give its opponents? Look at the record. Expulsion after expulsion.

In Schenectady, N. Y., home of the huge electrical plants, three anti-Communist leaders were expelled because they dared talk to newspaper men. In White Plains, N. Y., anti-Communists were expelled for daring to hand out leaflets supporting an avowed anti-Communist ticket in a union election.

In Long Island, N. Y., more anti-Communists were hit. This time with fines ranging from $50 to $500, allegedly for not picketing, but actually because they were anti-Communists fighting the lefties in office.

WANT MORE? What about the same union in Philadelphia, where the left crowd in power simply picks up the union books of anti-Communists for some petty offense—and somehow, by coincidence, of course, just before election time so the offenders can't vote.

In these cases, just what do you think is the essence of the charges? "Conduct unbecoming a union member," that's the lefties' idea of civil liberties. Anti-Communism or exercising union rights in a lefty controlled outfit automatically becomes "conduct unbecoming a union member."

Want more? Only a few weeks ago the lefty leaders of a New York hotel and restaurant workers union expelled three business agents for daring to join the anti-Communist movement in that union.

WHY DOESN'T some one get sentimental over all this persecution? Some people have. I mean the leaders of the American Civil Liberties Union, who believe in civil liberties as a principle—not as a revolutionary tactic, comrade.

The ACLU today is distributing leaflets, saying "If your rights are violated contact the ACLU, 170 Fifth Ave., New York City."

Contact them, or contact me.

Let's give the lefties a real dose of civil liberties. The ACLU has a special committee ready to fight for your rights, a group headed by Prof. Herbert Northrup.

His leaflet says: "You cannot be punished, you cannot be fined, you have the right to: free speech, criticize your union officials, a free and honest union election, run for office, attend all union meetings, vote in all union meetings, vote in all union elections. . ."

Take that offer seriously. Let's give the lefties a dose of civil liberties—for both sides. We may even get the sentimentalists with us, or maybe their shining phrases wait only for left.

"I think you're doing this simply because I refused to marry you, Mr. Bilk!"

Lions Extinct In Bible Lands

JERUSALEM — Lions, which figure prominently in the stories of Samson and Daniel, as well as in several other books of the Bible, are apparently extinct in Palestine and other Bible countries. Naturalists who were with the British forces that recently left Iraq tried for two years to confirm reports that there were still wild lions in Mesopotamia, but all their searchings in the region that once was the heroic hunting-ground of chariot-driving kings of Babylonia and Assyria failed to turn up so much as a pawmark in the mud of the Euphrates. Neither were any lions on th banner of that country.

The only lions in all Palestine are in the zoos at Jerusalem, where an effort has been made to collect all the beasts mentioned in the Bible, and in another zoo at Tel Aviv; but these lions came from Africa. If any lions survive in Asia, they must be in the wilds of western Pakistan.

Lions figure prominently in ancient mosaic art of Asia Minor, and the bones of a lion were found in a garden at Bethlehem. The animals were still frequently encountered at the time of the Crusades, but in modern times firearms have apaprently wiped out the few survivors.

HOW TO FINANCE MARSHALL PLAN

Buy More Savings Bonds

By SYLVIA PORTER

Beardsley Ruml, originator of our pay-as-you-go tax system, is now concentrating on another idea— this one for financing the Marshall Plan loans. He wants you and me to do it entirely through our intensified purchases of savings bonds. He figures loans to Europe will total around $5 billion a year, an amount easily collected from us if we buy the bonds. He has a lot of reasons for urging this and the most important has nothing to do with money.

Instead, it has to do with your "education" and mine, our "awakening to our moral responsibility."

It has to do with "making the public realize it must stop being so wasteful," making us understand "there is no sense to the spending going on today."

RUML HAS BEEN talking a lot about this plan recently — but the reporting of his ideas has been decidely inaccurate and misleading."

Ruml does not favor a special sale of bonds by a government corporation to be set up under the Marshall Plan—as has been suggested by several leading GOP spokesmen.

He wants the bonds to be regular U. S. government securities, on a par in every way with treasury bonds now outstanding.

Ruml does not favor a "new" series of savings bonds that would be especially identified with European loans — as also has been suggested by Republican leaders.

He figures the old, familiar bonds are fine enough — the E. F and G bonds you and I have bought by the billions since 1941.

But he does want speeded-up sales campaigns — drives to rival, perhaps surpass, the ones put on during the war years.

HE DOES INSIST this program can and should be tied in with important tax reduction in 1948.

In his plea for intensified savings bond sales, Ruml is moving down the same line as the administration—for this was item three in President Truman's 10-point anti-inflation program.

This would have a direct impact on you. This really would be financing of the Marshall Plan productive loans "by the public."

* * *

YOU SHOULD PUT UP THE CASH for the loans to Europe— — for our own welfare, our national welfare, the world's welfare.

MAYBE YOU WON'T HAVE THE DOLLARS to buy. But millions of workers, businessmen and farmers will have them.

The savings bond program of the last decade stands as one of the great financial developments of this century.

If now it can be used to aid in the revival of Europe and the conquest of inflation, it will become even greater.

READER SERVICE

If Black Market Adoption Homes advertised, they would probably say — "Buy Your Baby Here! Quick delivery! No Questions asked!

The tragic results of dealing with the Black Market is not only the money involved but the heartache and uncertainty from not knowing the child's background.

Take the story of a young couple who went to a private maternity hospital, found a beautiful three weeks' old girl and paid $500 for her. Before long she was the center of their home and future dreams.

What happens? They discover she has a congenital heart disease. Nothing they do — specialists, treatments — can save her. After two years of parenthood, they are again childless.

If this couple had gone to an adoption agency authorized by the Department of Welfare in their state, this would not have happened.

Authorized agencies cannot guarantee longevity but they do examine each child carefully to see that he is in perfect physical and mental condition at the time of placement.

For the authorized adoption agency nearest you, see our latest Reader Service booklet No. 205, a valuable guide to you who would adopt a child, steps to take, what to expect.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "'Now,' cried the apostle, 'is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation,'—meaning, not that now men must prepare for a future world salvation, or safety, but that now is the time in which to experience that salvation in spirit and in life . . . To break this earthly spell, mortals must get the true idea and divine Principle of all that really exists and governs the universe harmoniously" (39:18-22, 25-27).

GOSPEL CENTER AUDITORIUM HAS FIRST SERVICE SUNDAY

The new Gospel Center auditorium at 425 Fifth avenue north, will be occupied by its congregation for the first service tomorrow.

Edward Drew, present pastor of the Center, was for 27 years pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church at Paterson, N. J. He will present opening messages in the new house of worship.

Gospel Center is undenominational and open to all. Among the widely-known Bible teachers who will appear throughout the winter season are Dr. William L. Penningill, Addison C. Raws of New Jersey, Herman B. Centz of the Hebrew Christian Alliance and A. H. Stewart of Moody Bible Institute. These special meetings will begin early in January and continue through March.

Local men active in inaugurating work of the Gospel Center were Cade B. Allen, Ernest R. Kellogg, Frederick S. Johnson and Carles E. Conner. The meetings were begun last winter when they were held in the Coca-Cola auditorium.

The new building, which was started last spring, will be completely debt-free when dedicated.

The Lord's Supper will be observed at tomorrow's first service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Word Of Encouragement For A World In Despair

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS

Many persons today have no time for the Church, and many of them are brainy, moral, and public-spirited men and women. This unpalatable fact is commonly dodged by church folk. Undeniably though, there is a large group of social reformers who do not take the Church into their thinking. They do worse than oppose it: they ignore it. Now what shall the open-minded Christian say to this condition?

The question is pertinent in the light of the present Sunday School Lesson, which deals with John's message to the churches of Asia. The wonderful achievements of the new Gospel were apparent from the simple fact that within the lifetime of one man, the Apostle John, who had stood by the cross of the crucified and apparently defeated Founder of the Church, the Brotherhood had become a real power in all the imperial centers of Rome's dominions.

TWO KINDS OF CHURCHES

Our lesson today deals with John's message to two of these churches—the church at Smyrna which had fidelity, and the church at Laodicea which had funds. In the eyes of the world, the church at Smyrna was poor; in God's sight, it was rich. Judged by reputation and financial standing, the church at Laodicea was rich; God's judgement passed upon this church was: "Thou art the wretched one and miserable and poor and naked." The good folk at Smyrna found the going hard but for the sake of the Gospel accepted these tribulations without a murmur. In Laodicea the Christian community lived in comfort, walked proudly in affluence, and cared little about the welfare of persons either within or outside the Christian community.

When Christians are callous to the world's need and put their trust in social standing and satisfactory bank balances, the outside world points its finger at the whole of Christ's Church and declares it unworthy. The Church today and the Church in past centuries has been the leader in fighting evil, ameliorating misery, demanding justice for the downtrodden, and bringing comfort to the sorrowful. But often the soft, comfort-loving spirit which afflicted the church at Laodicea has been a defacing blemish on the life of many wealthy and influential modern churches.

THE CHURCH TRIUMPHANT

Yet with all her shortcomings and the material-mindedness of many of her leaders, the Church is shaping life fundamentally and for eternity. She alone has the adequate motives to bring to bear upon human nature. No other program but hers undertakes to make over the essential character of mankind. Because the Church is so vital, all who love her should be fearless in guarding her against wrong tendencies. It is a sorry day when the people of the Church settle down in smug complacency, content to be mere members of an organization which is a success only when measured by worldly standards. John's message to the churches of Asia is the most dramatic of all appeals for solicitude for the Church. Heaven cares for the Church on earth and holds her accountable for her character and work. The Church militant is under the supervision of the Church triumphant.

OUR ONE SURE HOPE

The second part of today's Lesson turns the eyes of the reader from the problems of the Church on earth to the glories of the redeemed in heaven. John sees a great multitude about the throne of God arrayed in white robes, and these, he is told, are the courageous souls who would not bow to the demands of Caesar or conform themselves to the thinking and behavior of their day, and who, because of their fidelity, have washed their robes in the blood of the Lamb and now stand before His throne to "serve Him night and day in His temple."

Out of the mire and muck of imperial Rome blossomed the fair lily of Christian optimism. This Book of Revelation, literature's surpassing picture of the triumph of goodness and truth, was produced during the sway of the Roman Empire at its worst. Never was the night darker; never did the star of hope shine brighter. Out of the background of this study of the Apocalypse we get the tremendous truth that Christianity has never lost its clear vision of victory and its essential optimism.

This is the only adequate foundation for an optimism which will work: God lives, and His kingdom is coming and all evil is passing. All the slow processes of history are gradually converging upon final and overwhelming victory for the kingdom of heaven. Because the Christian thinks in terms of two worlds, he alone has adequate reason for a philosophy of optimism.

All we have hoped to be, all we have aspired to do, all we have yearned for of love and perfect fellowship is yet to be ours in the ineffable land which perfect knowledge and fadeless love have prepared for us.

The Sunday School Lesson for December 14 is, "Loyalty Under Prosecution." Revelation 2:8-11; 3:14-22; 7:9-17.

ODDITIES OF WILDLIFE TOLD TO AUDUBON SOCIETY

One of the best illustrated lectures on nature ever given in St. Petersburg was that presented at First Congregational church last night by William Ferguson as first in a series of Audubon Screen Tours that will continue at intervals through April 1.

Prior to the lecture, Mrs. Howard D. Pomeroy spoke, calling attention to an Audubon field trip today, in which those participating will meet at 8 o'clock at the Clearwater end of Davis causeway, and Al Ady, who introduced the speaker.

Ferguson, known nationally through his syndicated feature, "This Curious World" augmented the title by calling his lecture "This Curious World of Nature." Many of the pictures were taken around his summer home overlooking Rocky Mountain National Park and all of them were photographed so carefully that animals and birds held little fear of the photographer.

To emphasize the amazing facts about animals and birds Ferguson said that radar had been used by bats for millions of years enabling them to sense objects around them and to miss them even when flying blindfolded and that camouflage has been used by animals for millions of years. He proved the second point by his pictures.

Ferguson gave his lecture in the layman's language injecting humor now and then to make his remarks more vivid.

The Audubon Screen tours are sponsored by the St. Petersburg Audubon society, Bird and Tree circle of the Garden club and the National Audubon society. Next illustrated lecture by Howard Cleaves will be "Midnight Movies in Animaland". It will be heard Jan. 5.

Confession

To whom should confession be made? Man or God? It is being practiced both ways. Which is scriptural? Is it not true the Catholic church requires members to confess to the priest? Where is the scripture for such practice? Echo—WHERE? ? ? All Christians are of the "royal priesthood" (1st Peter 2:9); and therefore have the right to make their own confessions to God. Every Christian is a priest (Rev. 1:6), and may perform the functions of priesthood as appointed in God's word. God does not recognize the "confessional" as any part of the divine plan. We are commanded to confess our sins to another and pray one for another (James 5:16). This does not indicate that some special person (i.e.) priest, bishop, cardinal, pope etc., must do the praying, but that any child of God may so do. Christ is high priest after order of Melchizedek (Heb. 7:17), and Christians are priests. Christ is king, Christians are his subjects. He has organized the church, and this organization was put into effect by the Holy Spirit. Christ is head, under him there are bishops, also called elders, presbiters, overseers, then there are deacons, which means servants or ministers (not necessarily in accepted sense of word, not every deacon is a preacher) and lastly there are the rest of the members of the church, the body. This is the Bible plan of the church organized. Do all religious organizations fit the foregoing description? Where in God's plan do you find pope, cardinal, etc.?? We try to teach only God's way, and it condemns all others!

Gulf Beach Group To Introduce Board Candidates

Gulf Beach Civic association will give a reception Tuesday evening at the Church By The Sea to acquaint islanders with candidates for the service and erosion control boards. Election will be held Jan. 6.

The association met this week with Dr. Floyd Zimmermann, president, who has returned to the beaches after a long vacation, presiding.

A recently published article was read stating that Representative Emory Price had asked the legislature to appropriate $10,000,000 for damages to Florida beaches. Motion was made that the Gulf Beach Civic association write Price and Congressman J. Hardin Peterson to include the west coast beaches in the appropriation.

Mrs. Alex Wilson, chairman of the school committee, read a letter from Ralph Dewberry confirming his offer to donate a two and a half acre site in upper Redington Beach for a school.

"Escape Me Never," currently at the Playhouse, is Warner Bros.' latest romantic drama starring Errol Flynn, Ida Lupino and Eleanor Parker.

Based on the novel and play by Margaret Kennedy, "Escape Me Never" is the story of a budding young musician and the woman who loves him and becomes his inspiration.

The setting is Venice in 1900. Gemma has had a rather difficult time and out of pity Sebastian takes her in. Caryl, Sebastian's brother, loves Fenella but through a misunderstanding of mistaken identity her parents separate them.

So Sebastian, Gemma and Caryl set off on a trek that takes them through beautiful Alpine country to find Fenella and straighten things out between her and Caryl. Meantime, Fenella meets Sebastian who is quite a gay young fellow with the ladies and can't make up her mind.

Sebastian and Gemma are married and move to London where Sebastian is successful in finding a backer for his ballet "Primavera" which never opens. Gemma's baby dies for lack of money and when Gemma runs away, then it is that Sebastian writes truly beautiful music "Escape Me Never."

Ida Lupino is Gemma and she does a good job but somehow it's not a good role for her. Errol Flynn as Sebastian seems very much at home in his part as the gay young fellow who's quite a lad with the ladies. Eleanor Parker as Fenella glides through her part coolly and unemotionally.

Gig Young is good in the top featured role and chief supporting parts are played by Reginald Denny, Isobel Elsom and Albert Basserman. —E. M.

Police Seeking Christel Klein

Lotsch asked the local department's aid in locating his relative. He said he has an important message.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Miss Klein is asked to notify police.

Bob Hadley Heads Model Plane Club

Bob Hadley was elected president of the St. Petersburg Night Hawks model plane club during the annual election Thursday night. Other officers elected were:

Pete Smith, vice president; Stanley Hoffman, secretary; Walter Schlessinger, treasurer; and Lee Armstrong, club historian.

Meetings of the club are held every Thursday evening in the YMCA. All persons interested in model planes are welcome to attend.

THE CLOCK TURNS BACKWARD—No, this isn't an old picture resurrected from our files. It's Gulfport's Mayor Walter Williams assisting Mrs. Edna Christman from a vintage car with Chauffeur Louis J. Boeri respectfully holding the door. It's all for the sake of the Gay Nineties festival Gulfport will put on Jan. 19. A number of ancient autos are being entered in the event.

Christmas Tree Care Suggested

Fire Chief Claud Nesbit yesterday urged all residents to fireproof their Christmas trees before decorating them for the holiday season.

Nesbit said a simple solution of ammonium sulphate dissolved in water will make the trees fire resistant and greatly reduce chance of fires.

For each four pound tree weight, one pound of ammonium sulphate should be dissolved in a pint and one half of water and either sprayed on the tree or allowed to soak into the tree.

Nesbit said this solution should be allowed to permeate the tree for three or four days before the tree is to be decorated.

'Senator Was Indiscreet' Pokes Fun At Congressmen

By EDITH GWYNN

Few days ago we mentioned the tizzy that Universal was in over the storm that might break when "The Senator Was Indiscreet" hits the theatres and we added that the picture was so broadly funny that none in his right mind could take offense at it. The reviews after the preview of this slap-happy film the other night bear out that feeling.

Also, we've received a note from producer Nunnally Johnson which says, "Many thanks for your handsome words on 'The Senator'. Judging from the veiled threats being made in some quarters, I was beginning to wonder if I shouldn't go on to Washington right now and get it over with. But if kidding congressmen is subversive, then every political cartoonist is a double so-and-so and the late Will Rogers would have been put away in the deep-freeze long before he became pretty well liked in these United States. If you're sure you're right, I'll unpack."

Nunnally may borrow Lilli Palmer (as soon as she returns from London next month) for the lead in his picture, "Treachery". We hope Lilli comes back from abroad with a few more facial expressions than she managed to squeeze forth in "Body and Soul" . . . With the big click that Leo Genn has made in "Mourning Becomes Electra" and his latest efforts in "The Velvet Touch" with Rosalind Russell, lots of people as usual are claiming they "discovered" him. But it was Doug Fairbanks Jr., who gave Genn his film start back in 1937 — as a writer-actor in the movie, "Thief Meets Thief" . . . Once a trouper, always a trouper stuff: Sylvia Sidney, on only a few hours notice stepped into Larraine Day's role in "Angel Street" last night when the Day gal was suddenly out because of laryngitis.

* * *

IT WON'T BE A white Christmas for Ann Sheridan who returns to Hollywood from N. Y. any minute. Steve Hannagan will come along — natch! . . . Director Leo ("Going My Way") McCarey is broadening out. In his new picture "Good Sam", he not only has a priest, but includes a minister and a rabbi . . . Janet Thomas and Johnny Meyer are poised for a pre-holiday wedding . . . Dennis Morgan's little girl, Kristan, aged 10, makes her screen debut in "My Wild Irish Rose" . . . Doris Dudley is thinking about taking her talented son, Butch Jenkins out of pictures for an indefinite time. The sprig it seems, is getting too fresh for his age.

Anent our item about the similarity between the songs "Harmony" and "Friendship", Johnny Burke says, "Harmony was written by Jimmy van Heusen and me and the similarity is due entirely to my criminal proclivities. Johnny Mercer who made a record of it is innocent of any plagiarism." . . . Gloria Grahame goes to court next week to divorce Stanley Clements and will allege cruelty. Title of her current picture is "Roughshod" — oh, the pain of it all! . . . Red Skelton starts another picture in a few weeks — a roaring comedy called "The Spy". Red was telling of the time he and his first wife, Edna were off on a motor trip and the car was loaded with camping equipment. They reached a beautiful hunk of scenery in the mountains, and Red, overcome by the beauty of nature said, "Let's stop and camp here. We have everything we need —everything. And if we want anything special I can shoot it for you." And Edna answered, "Oh yeah??! Then get out of the car and shoot me a cup of coffee!"

* * *

JACK OAKIE and Vicki Horne will do their march to the altar next month . . . That new singer on the Bob Hope show who chirps so well, is Marilyn Williams — and she's the daughter of the late, famous songstress, Marion Harris. Marilyn was born in the U. S. but has lived in England all her life until recently . . . Speaking of singers — Helen O'Connell, the former Dorsey thrush, is going to make some records before her baby is born next spring, after all. She'll do some discs with Jimmy Zito (he's June Haver's husband) and his band this week—then make eight records of her own.

That saxaphone player who has been posing around as bandleader Charlie Barnett is now reposing in the jug — and still insisting he's Barnett! . . . The plane that Buddy Rogers has been flying all over the country is one he bought from Robert Cummings when Bob got his new Beechcraft . . . . Eddie Bracken is moving his lock, stock and family to New York where he'll take the first good show offer that comes along . . . Starlet Deanie Best and Howard Hawkes who could make her a star, are steady-dating ..."You can never tell about a woman," said Earl Wilson to Tommy Lyman. "And you shouldn't!" flipped Tommy.

(Note hose attached to exhaust pipe and blanket, top right, covering broken window to keep monoxide fumes in car.) Keefer had been dead several days. His body was discovered by Billie Woodward, 17, 1809 31st avenue north. Keefer leaves his wife and three small children.

No Bids For Bonds Deals Blow To Bay Bridge; New Finance Plan Explored

The proposed Pinellas-Manatee bay bridge was dealt a staggering blow yesterday morning when the St. Petersburg Port Authority did not receive a single bid on the sale of its bonds.

Failure to obtain support of bond houses in financing the $15,000,000 project was announced at a special meeting at City Hall.

The revelation, made by Chairman Leon D. Lewis who immediately adjourned the meeting, was a bitter pill for authority members to swallow since it had earlier been revealed that original construction bids had been scaled down to less than $11,200,000 which would have permitted contract awards.

While the huge project appeared doomed at least for the immediate future, some members held out faint hope that financing yet may be obtained through a special working agreement with the authority's fiscal agents.

THIS PLAN, advanced in a statement issued by the Port Authority, will be investigated first as to its legality and, if deemed feasible, will be pursued through the agency's New York bond attorneys, Wood, King and Dawson.

Allen C. Grazier, authority attorney, explained this procedure would call for the entire $15,000,000 bond issue to be placed in the hands of the fiscal agent, a combination of financial institutions throughout the country, which would be delegated the authority to sell the revenue bonds at a stipulated minimum discount and at a maximum rate of interest.

Grazier pointed out there is some question on the legality of this procedure of the Port Authority calling for the sale of bonds through the fiscal agent and explained that it will not be attempted pending a legal opinion from the New York bond attorneys.

"This plan," he said, "appears to be the last chance for the port authority to obtain financing for the bridge."

MEANWHILE, Grazier said it will be necessary to contact low construction bidders to ascertain if they will agree to an extension of their bids past the Dec. 14 deadline at which time they will expire.

"If these two objectives can be accomplished," he said, "we will then have to reassemble the pieces and see if we can build a bridge."

Although admittedly discouraged at the turn of events, authority members expressed no astonishment at the outcome of bond bidding.

"We aren't surprised that we didn't receive any bids," Lewis asserted, "but we certainly didn't know it."

GRAZIER DECLARED that failure to obtain bids on the sale of bridge bonds was no reflection on the Port Authority, adding that "the whole answer is that there just isn't any market."

He cited general uncertainty in the money markets as the chief reason for lack of interest on the part of financial institutions in the revenue issue, explaining that many large bond houses throughout the country are disposing of holdings at a loss as they near the end of the tax year.

"Many of these firms are taking losses rather than retain the securities and chance the future," he said. "They simply cannot afford these large investments because of conditions."

GRAZIER FURTHER pointed out, however, that bond issues such as contemplated by the authority were considered above the average risk on the market today in view of rising bridge revenues in every section of the nation. "Bridge revenues," he said, "have reached the point of being fantastic."

Lewis said the Port Authority "has no apologies to make," declaring that its failure to obtain bond bids was due to "conditions beyond our control."

"I can truthfully say that a sincere effort has been made to work out the many problems involved," he said, "and I can assure everyone that we will continue in our efforts to work it out."

WHILE SOME members of the authority expressed belief that a solution may yet be found despite the seemingly insurmountable obstacles, it was generally agreed that construction bidders will be difficult to hold past the Dec. 14 deadline in view of advancing prices. It was pointed out that both labor and construction costs are mounting by the day while shortages are becoming more acute.

"These are facts we must face," Grazier said.

It was pointed out by the authority that when financing was being set up by its fiscal agent — a combine of large financial institutions — the authority had been assured that the bonds could be sold at a bottom price of 98 cents on the dollar at an interest rate not to exceed three per cent. There was never any basis for the report that the authority would be called upon to take a $600,000 discount, the statement added.

GRAZIER also pointed out that there had been some misunderstanding about the revised contruction bids, explaining that the scaled-down figure of less than $11,200,000 received yesterday was not the result of a call for new bids but a recalculation on alternate plans and specifications.

"The authority simply proceeded under its legal right to negotiate with the original low bidders on bridge construction," he said, "and the figure that has been obtained is the result of this negotiation."

He recalled that the seven low bidders had expressed a desire to co-operate with the Port Authority in the negotiations and that according to law the authority was empowered to do so. He emphasized the fact that the revised costs did not represent new bids, but recalculations on several alternates contained in the original invitation for bids.

Freeman Horton, representing the Port Authority's engineering firm of Bail and Horton, who was present at the meeting, said all bidders had agreed to these conditions in the beginning.

Lie Detector Demonstrated To Lions Club

Value of the lie detector as a means of helping obtain confessions of guilt was demonstrated to the Lions club yesterday by Cliff Goelitz, chief of Hillsborough county's identification bureau.

Much of the lie detector's value, Goelitz declared, is psycological, 50 per cent of the confessions obtained by its use coming even before a test is made. By registering bodily changes in breathing, heartbeat and the rise in blood pressure on a graph, the machine, he said, makes practically impossible any attempt to deceive.

Questioner and subject should be alone when the detector is used, Goelitz explained, and there should be no attempt to surprise the prisoner. He is told in advance what he will be asked, Goelitz said, and cannot be forced to undergo the test unless he is willing. The natural "scare" reaction is taken into account, and some questions are asked which will have no effect at all on an innocent man.

As to whether the record of the lie detector is admissible as evidence in court, Goelitz said he might be allowed to give testimony with the agreement of the defense council and the judge. Use of the machine itself in court, however, would require a demonstration under unfavorable circumstances, he averred.

The machine he uses, Goelitz revealed, is the only one south of Cincinnati and is the same he used in the Refoule case in Atlanta. Many more are needed, he declared.

In an actual demonstration of the machine, realtor O. D. Cloakey was selected by vote of the club as the "champion prevaricator". Goelitz asked Cloakey to draw a card from a deck and then to lie about it. Cloakey showed little agitation when the card was named, but revealed the deception, Goelitz pointed out, by relaxing decidedly after the dangerous question had been asked.

Present to view the demonstration were Deputy Sheriff John Fox, representing Sheriff Todd Tucker, and Police Sgt. Verne Goodbread. Fox and Goodbread appealed to Lions for their support of the sheriff's current courtesy campaign as a means of reducing traffic accidents.

Utility Board To Receive Report On FPC Figures For Possible Rate Change

Engineers currently conducting an investigation of rates charged by Florida Power corporation yesterday informed members of the Pinellas County Utility board that a preliminary report of their findings sufficient to determine whether an adjustment in electrical rates is warranted will be submitted early next week.

The announcement was made during a special meeting of the board which reaffirmed its intention of pressing the probe of FPC rates "unless barred by injunction."

Florida Power has instituted a suit against the constitutionality of the utility act under which the board is empowered to make the rate investigation and also has asked for a continuing temporary injunction to restrain the board from further examination of the corporation's books as well as to prevent institution of penalties against FPC for its refusal to grant access to records.

Hearing on the injunctive plea will be held Monday morning before Federal Judge William J. Barker at Tampa.

In preparation for the hearing, the board yesterday passed a resolution to reaffirm its intention to "defend to the utmost of its ability the validity of the act" and empowered its attorney, Carroll R. Runyon, to take the necessary actions in representing the board.

While the board's engineers said the preliminary report on Florida Power rates would by no means be final, they said it should be sufficiently conclusive "to give the board an idea of where it stands."

They pointed out that if the board determines that a rate adjustment should be made — either up or down — a consumer analysis study will be necessary. This procedure, they said, will require further examination of the corporation books.

If the injunction sought by FPC is granted Monday, however engineers would be barred from continuing their study of the records.

Prior to adjournment the board approved payment of $7,336.52 to the engineers for services rendered in the investigation during November. The injunction sought by Florida Power would bar further payments by the board to continue the rate study.

Builders To Hear State Officials

How local builders can maintain employment levels in 1948 and reduce their contributions to unemployment funds will be discussed Monday night at 8 o'clock in City Hall room 204 by state employment officials and the St. Petersburg Contractor's association.

Employment service men expected to attend and offer suggestions include William Kennedy, manager of the local office, and Peter J. Hovey, supervisor of Negro placements. State law permits downward reductions from 2.7 to 1 per cent of individual wages in employer's contributions to unemployment funds, providing the employer maintains work levels, Hovey explains.

Pinellas County Negroes To Have Own Bathing Beach

Pinellas county Negroes who have been deprived of a bathing beach since the early days when they bathed in the Gulf at Pass-a-Grille, will soon have one of the finest beaches in the county just north of Davis Causeway on the shores of Old Tampa Bay.

The new beach was made possible through the work of Courtney Campbell, Pinellas member of the state road department which built a new shell road from the causeway to the beach which is almost hidden by projecting land.

The city of Clearwater which owns most of the land not owned by the state contributed to the program by donating all its land to the state. The 40-acre tract is far removed from any white residents.

A small amount of privately owned land within the area will be purchased from the owners.

The park will be improved by the state with picnic shelters and barbeque pits similar to those on Davis causeway. In the future a recreation building may be erected. The low shore line has been filled with shell.

In Clearwater the only place the Negroes have to swim is in Stevenson's creek near the sewage disposal plant. Several have been drowned in the swift waters. Negroes are not permitted to swim in the Gulf at Clearwater Beach or at any other point.

Old timers recall that during the early days of Pass-a-Grille, steamers from Tampa brought great crowds of Negroes from Tampa who bathed in the Gulf. Only a sign separated them from the white bathers.

The new beach is expected to be opened after the first of next year.

Christmas Lights To Bloom On Pier, Downtown Monday

St. Petersburg's first post-war Kiwanis Christmas Lighting Festival will start at 8 p. m., Monday, with colored lights flashing on in the downtown section and out on the pier, Dr. Clad Stewart and Earl Grounds, co-chairmen of the committee in charge, report.

Thirty-three lighted trees will form an aisle of color out to the pier beginning at Bayshore drive. The Jaycee Beach club will be decorated by a special lighting committee now at work on the project. Three trees in front of the young peoples' clubhouse will also be lighted up. Adjacent to the club will be the Three Wise Men tableau sponsored by the Ministerial association. Out on the pier itself, on top of the casino building, will be the Star of Bethlehem. A huge neon sign with the words, "Season's Greetings" will be on the casino facing west.

Students of the St. Petersburg Senior high school, with the help of Scarritt Motors will sponsor a tree in the Christmas Tree Lane. Needing extra money for decoration of the tree, the youngsters received the cash from the automobile company.

Sponsored by the Merchants association, a huge Christmas tree will be erected on a float in the middle of Mirror Lake. Beginning Thursday, choirs from five churches will sing carols at the shore of the lake on successive nights from 8 to 9 p. m. The carols will be broadcast over the entire lake area by a public address system.

Sponsors of trees on the Lane include: Rotary, Exchange, Civitan, Optimist and Kiwanis Civic clubs, also Chamber of Commerce, Bell Bakeries, Foremost Dairies, Yellow-Rite Rate Cabs, St. Petersburg Insurer's Exchange, Hendry Lumber Co., Coca Cola, St. Petersburg Bar association, Rieck and Fleece, Rhodes Funeral home, Brinson Electric Co., Florida Motor Lines, St. Petersburg Realty board, Southern Dairies, Pinellas Lumber Co., First Methodist church, Baynard Realty Co., First Federal Savings and Loan association, Florida State theatres, Wilhelm's Funeral home, St. Petersburg senior high, Michigan Tourist society, Home Owners' association, Master Plumber's association, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

SHERIFF SEEKS DRIVER OF DAY

The courteous driving award for today will be presented by Sheriff Todd Tucker to the driver of a 1946 Ford coupe, bearing license number 4D-8939. According to Mrs. S. C. Giles, 611 Fifteenth street north, a young man driving this automobile brought it to a stop in the line of traffic, allowing Mrs. Giles to pull away from the curb, which she had been attempting to do for some time but could not because of heavy traffic.

The driver of 4D-8939 cannot be located through police registration files. The Safety Editor urges him to inform The Times of his name immediately so Sheriff Tucker can make the award.

Ethel's 'No Self Service' Edict May Be Boon To Shiftless

(Editors' Note: Never one to let a story die an honorable death and be quietly interred, Times Man of all Wit Bothwell today rushes into the fray swinging his heavy club of humor, adding to the miseries of a poor woman who, no doubt, devoutly wishes she hadn't said that.)

(See Editorial, Page 6.)

By DICK BOTHWELL

Brickbats and scallions are flying about the astonished ears of one Ethel M. Manning, executive director of the state's beauty culture board. All because she's interpreted the agency's law to mean that home beauty treatments are illegal — a statement termed "absurd" by Attorney General Tom Watson last Wednesday.

But considerable deep thought has convinced us that Ethel may have something there — an idea which could revolutionize business. We're not the only ones — Mr. John J. Hoffman, proprietor of the Health House restaurant at 240 Central, dropped into the office yesterday and jokingly suggested that a law to protect the restaurant business would be a highly desirable move.

Wives who cooked meals at home, he explained, could be either arrested or picketed as unfair to public eating places. We agreed — surely such a step would be welcomed with open arms by every woman who ever slaved all day over a hot plate. It would also lessen the danger of hot grease burns, dishwater hands, and ptomaine poisoning.

Garage owners too should fall in line without a moment's hesitation. Think of all the money they lose when John Q. patches up the old jalopy's wheezing motor himself or fixes those flats in person! Besides, its downright dangerous. You can pull a ligament without half trying, messing around with all those heavy tools.

Undoubtedly the Lawn Mowers, Window Washers and Odd Jobs Around The House union (if there is such a thing) could get ample backing from our tired business men and the city's youth if they moved to make these simple chores illegal when done personally by the householder.

And in the field of ladies wear, think of the profits which go glimmering every time some Mrs. or Miss who's handy with the needle whips up a dress for herself!!

You see? The "DON'T DO IT YOURSELF IT'S ILLEGAL" plan can go on and on and on, until eventually the common man could even hire a professional to turn off the alarm and raise his eyelids in the morning. The only question is — who could pay for this super-service?

SOUTH CAROLINIANS FACE TARPON SPRINGS

By BILL SCOTT
(Times Sports Writer)

Tarpon Springs' Spongers will meet the undefeated Greenwood, S. C., Emeralds on Stewart field tonight at 8 o'clock in the first annual Blind Bowl sponsored by the Gulf Beach Lions club. Proceeds from the game will be used for charity.

Greenwood's Emeralds, rated second best in South Carolina, will be playing the role of the favorite over the better than usual Sponger aggregation. Playing 11 games the Carolina club posted scores of 40-13, 32-7 and 39-8 while winning ten and tying one.

In their first year in the South Florida conference, the Tarpon Springs eleven came up with one of the best seasons in many years. Two of their three losses were at the hands of the strong Plant of Tampa and St. Petersburg's Green Devils, both members of the Big Ten Conference. The third loss suffered by the Spongers was at the hands of their long standing rival, Clearwater. With the exception of their three losses, Ft. Myers and OLPH of Tampa were the only opponents able to score on them. They eked out a 7-6 decision over the strong Green Wave from Ft. Myers and rolled over OLPH 46-7.

Greenwood boasts a pair of fine running backs in Sonny Horton and Hootie Johnson. Horton, weighing 194, runs from the fullback slot and is a hard man to stop through the middle. He is a senior and will be a captain of tonight's game. The Universities of Georgia and Tennessee are both interested in the whereabouts of this youngster when he closes his high school books for good. Guard Tom Chandler is an extra point specialist and during the recent season made good 21 out of 33 attempts. He also added three points to his total by booting a 26 yard field goal which was the only one he attempted all season.

Mayor Fred Howard of Tarpon Springs will crown Miss Louise Lowe, who has been named Queen of the Blind Bowl, at half time ceremonies. Miss Lowe is a blind girl who operates a cold drink and sandwich stand in the courthouse at Clearwater.

Yesterday morning the Emeralds, as guests of the Beach Lions were taken to the Bath club and spent the morning limbering up on the beaches. Coach "Pinky" Babb, former Furman star expressed a desire to schedule a game here in the Sunshine City or in Southern Florida and play here every year. Yesterday afternoon Babb had his boys run through a short workout in game uniforms at Stewart field.

Green Devils Wallop FMA, 66-13, In Opener

By BOB HUDSON
(Times Sports Writer)

St. Petersburg Green Devils, defending champions of the Big Ten conference, opened their 1947-48 basketball season last night by trouncing the Florida Military Academy Cadets, 66 to 13, at the high school gym.

Playing before an opening night crowd of approximately 1,000 fans, the Devils ran roughshod over the Cadets with their fast breaking offense and smooth operating man-to-man defense.

Scoring honors for the tussle went to Toby Krayer, stringbean forward, and Dick Bear, left-handed center. Both of the Devil players dropped in ten points. Krayer made three field goals and four free throws and Bear ripped the cords for five baskets from the floor.

Two minutes of the first quarter had passed before the Devils, who were jittery from the fact that they were playing their first game of the season, scored a field goal. Krayer had dropped in a charity toss to give the high school cagers a one-point lead. Then Joe Morris, the clever ball handling guard of the Devils, made two straight baskets on one handed shots from the middle of the key.

AFTER MORRIS had taken the lid off of the basket, Krayer and Hugh Robinson added field goals and Morris another two points on a long shot. Then he matched Krayer's charity toss to give the Devils a 13 to 2 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Coach John Axton substituted a new five at the beginning of the second period. With Jimmy Haslam, who ended the night with a total of nine points, and Bear leading the attack, the Devils drove for 21 more points before the half ended. Haslam scored two field goals on rebound shots after his fellow teammates had missed the first try for the hoop. Bear's tallies came on one handed hook shots from the free throw lines.

Holding a 34 to 4 lead at the beginning of the second half, the Devils continued to bombard the FMA basket and added 13 points to their total. Krayer banged in a score with a one handed shot from the corner, Jimmy Grinaker scored a long shot from the side, Haslam tapped in a shot that dropped off the edge of the rim and Dale Dewberry added four points on bell ringers from outside of the free throw line.

It wasn't until late in the third period that the Cadets scored a field goal. Their points were made at the free throw line on charity tosses by Dewberry, Stear and two by Tyndall. Griffin, the FMA center, scored their first two pointers from the floor on a one handed push shot from the side of the basket.

The Devils continued to keep the Cadets bottled up while piling up their points to take a commanding 47 to 10 lead as the third period ended.

WITH THE starting five headed for the showers, the Devils roared back after the rest period between the third and final periods to score 19 more points and to bring their total up to 66 for the evening. Bear banged in two one handers from the left side of the basket, Grinaker lashed the web with a lay in shot, Jerry Curtis scored his second field goal for the evening and Hickman, Hitchens, Crouch and Davis tallied on shots from different parts of the court.

When the final count was totaled, the Cadets had made three field goals and seven free throws for their efforts in the game.

The Devils scored on 28 field goals and ten charity tosses for their total.

In the preliminary game, Coach Bucky Hawks' sophomore team outclassed the FMA B squad, 38 to 8.

Dick Segers paced the sophomores with five field goals and one free throw for a total of 11 points.

The Baby Devils, using a fast breaking offense, ran to their total while holding the FMA team to two points in each of the four quarters.

HALLUCINATIONS

PAGE FIFTEEN SATURDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1947

By DAN HALL
(Times Sports Editor)

THIS GREENWOOD FOOTBALL TEAM YOU ARE going to see in the Blind Bowl game at Stewart field tonight has a strong claim for the championship of South Carolina. Only North Charleston, a team which the Emeralds did not play, is ranked ahead of Greenwood. Class AA high schools in South Carolina have no playoffs to determine the state championship so it boils down to a question of who out-argues whom. Greenwood played most of the top teams in the state and the only thing resembling a blot on the team banner is a 7-7 tie with Parker high of Greenville, S. C. The Emeralds earned their top spot with a stout defensive ball club. In 11 games, only six touchdowns were scored against Greenwood. Greer high was the only club to tally twice and Greenwood won that ball game, 40-13. Six of the eleven opponents failed to cross the goal line even once. The Emeralds, on the other hand, are something of a scoring machine. The South Carolinians built up a total score of 241 points in 11 games to 42 for the opposition. These South Carolina teams get around. North Charleston was invited to the Peanut Bowl in Columbus, Ga., and Greenwood is here for the Blind Bowl.

* * *

THE EMERALDS ARE COACHED BY J. W. (PINKY) BABB, former Furman university star. He is athletic director at Greenwood high and coaches baseball, basketball and track as well as football. He has been a howling success at Greenwood. He went there early in the war years and brought the Emeralds from nowhere to a power in the state. Babb is assisted by Skeeter Coyle, another ex-Furman star who played in the Purple Hurricane backfield last year. He coaches the B team and helps with the varsity backs. He has been a valuable aid in training passers and punters. Coach Babb believes in adapting his system to his material. This year he has a powerful fullback, a shitfy halfback and two breakaway runners. So he favors the single wing. Sonny Horton, 194-pound senior who captains the team, is the fullback. He handles the ball on most plays as the spinnerback. He's a hard-hitting plunger and a constant threat through the middle of the line. Hootie Johnson, captain-elect of the 1948 team, is the tailback. He specializes in end sweeps and is a standout at picking the holes inside and outside of tackle and in the broken field. He weighs 175 pounds and is expected to be as much in demand as a college prospect next year as Horton is this year. Babb alternates Buddy Andrews, a scrappy ball carrier, and David Rice, a speed merchant, at wingback and as safety man. Both can run the reverses from the single wing left formation. Bob Bannister, alternate captain, is the field general. He blocks and fakes at the quarterback position. Bannister is the best of the passers on the team though the aerial weapon is used seldom.

* * *

THOUGH STATISTICS ARE NOT AVAILABLE HERE, IT is safe to assume that Greenwood is strictly a running ball club with the pass used seldom. That's the report we got from Pete Pederson, Greenwood spots editor who followed the team here. And the stars of the team are known for their ball carrying skill rather than ability to fling the ball downfield. On the other hand, if the Emeralds have a weakness, it is in pass defense. Successful passes played a part in most of the touchdowns scored against Greenwood this season. This makes for an interesting game tonight because Tarpon Springs is a team that can and does pass. Coach Babb says his best pass defense he has found to be in his line. The forwards are taught to charge through and stop the passes before they get away. From that point of view, a line battle is in prospect.

* * *

THERE ARE TWO FACTORS IN FAVOR OF TARPON SPRINGS tonight—warm weather to which the visitors are not accustomed and the fact that Greenwood had to make a long trip to get here while the Spongers had uninterrupted practice. So it shapes up as a good ball game. And every fan who pays his way into the park tonight will do so knowing that he is helping a worthy cause. The Gulf Beach Lions will use tonight's profits to start an eyesight clinic at the beaches for helping all Pinellas county residents who can not afford proper attention to their eyes. Lions International has a wonderful record for work with the blind and for saving eyesight. Any money taken in tonight will be well spent. We urge you to support the Blind Bowl.

GATOR CAGERS BOW TO AUBURN

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — Auburn's basketball team won its first Southeastern conference victory here last night by nosing out the University of Florida Gators, 43-41.

Ray Williams, Tiger forward, gave the visitors an early lead, sinking the first field goal of the game. It took Hans Tanzler and Bill Hamilton three minutes to pull the Gators out front, 6-4, but at halftime the score was tied, 24-24.

Trojan Cagers Meet Jax Five

The St. Petersburg Junior college basketball team will journey to Jacksonville tonight to take on the Jacksonville Junior college cagers at 8 o'clock.

The Trojans will be out after their 16 straight victory in tonight's tussle. They romped to a undefeated season last year by winning 14 straight games. They opened their 1947-48 season last Saturday by trouncing the Orlando Junior college basketball team, 63 to 25.

Coach Soc Plato is taking nine men on the trip up-state. He will have his starters in John Giese and Jim McFarlane at forwards, Bob Segers center, Bustor Horton and Skippy Bedford or Just Leminopolis at guard. The three other boys who will make the trip are Bob Kabry, Bill Wolley and Dub Hill.

Kabry has shown up well in recent workouts and is expected to see action in tonight's tilt.

Grudge Battle On Mat Card

The fight that started between Jim Benedetti and the referee Pat McGee at last Tuesday's wrestling matches will move into the lineup as a scheduled bout next week.

Featured match of Tuesday evening will bring the "Black Monster" back to the local ring against "Boston" Joe Corbett.

Benedetti accused McGee of cutting his mouth when the referee swung at him in an attempt to break up the fight which had already passed the limit. Benedetti wanted to settle things right then and there, however they were kept apart and will stage their grudge battle before the fans Tuesday night.

The Black Monster made his first appearance in the local ring and stopped big Jack Singer with two straight falls in the scheduled two out of three one hour time limit feature. Boston Joe will be more in the class of the seven foot "Monster."

Other bouts will be announced later.

Illinois Group Protests Poll

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Illinois State Athletic commission yesterday described as "a complete farce" a recent poll by the National Boxing association which showed sentiment slightly in favor of permitting Middleweight Champion Rocky Graziano's return to the ring.

The Illinois commission was the first to bar Graziano because of his war record. Several other states passed similar resolutions which prompted the NBA to conduct its poll

"In our opinion, no poll could have been more partial from its inception," the commission declared, "and this commission protested vigorously the manner in which the poll was being made.

"It is our considered opinion that the poll was a complete farce, the result of which certainly does not reflect credit upon the NBA, which is supposed to be the controlling influence for good in boxing, instead of a factor in dragging the sport into the gutter. It is discouraging to have the governing body conduct a poll as biased as this one was."

Officials Announced For Orange Bowl

MIAMI —(INS)— Officials for the 1948 Orange Bowl game between Georgia Tech and Kansas were named yesterday.

T. G. Kain, of Nashville, Tenn., will serve as referee. Other officials of the meet are John Waldorf (Missouri) of Marshall, Mo., umpire; Max Roper (Nebraska) of Lincoln, Neb., head linesman, and W. R. Bentley (Georgia) of Atlanta, field judge.

Southeastern May Sign Pact With Sugar Bowl

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss.—(AP) — A pact between the Sugar Bowl and the Southeastern conference appeared in the making yesterday with the league's football champion playing in the New Orleans game each January 1.

Sam Corenswet, president of the Sugar Bowl, in an informal address to the conference's annual meeting, pointed out that with exception of three years, SEC teams had been invited to all of the 14 games. He suggested that the conference appoint a committee to sit with one from the Sugar Bowl to "discuss things of mutual interest to us, especially the distribution of tickets to the game."

The competing teams this year — Alabama and Texas — each received about 12,150 tickets, Corenswet said — or about one third of those available. Each will get some $84,000 this year and when 12,000 more seats are added, the "take" of each team will be $100,000, he declared.

Athletic Director W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech, then asked Corenswet pointedly if the Sugar Bowl would be willing to sign an agreement whereby the Southeastern conference champion would automatically receive a bid to the bowl each year.

Corenswet while avoiding a direct answer by saying that he could not commit the Sugar Bowl to such an agreement, said "that would be one of the things to come up at a meeting of the two committees."

Action on a series of proposals which would align Southeastern conference regulations with those under consideration by the National Collegiate Athletic association was postponed until after the parent group meets in New York next month.

The deferment came as a surprise at the afternoon session of the body's annual meeting, as it had been freely predicted in official circles the revision of the conference's bylaws would be a mere formality. It marked the second straight year that the postponement was voted.

Under another action, agreed upon in executive session, acting Commissioner N. W. Dougherty of Tennessee will continue in that role for an indefinite time, pending selection of a successor to Commissioner Mike Connor, resigned.

Nashville Vols Swap Maynard For Cieslak

MIAMI—(UP)—The Nashville Vols have swapped Outfielder Buster Maynard to the Atlanta Crackers for Third Baseman Ted Cieslak, Vol Manager Larry Gilbert announced.

Cieslak hit over .300 for Atlanta during the past three seasons and was named the Southern Association's most-valuable player in 1945. Maynard, normally a heavy hitter, was handicapped by injuries much of last season.

Williams Gets Nod

NEW YORK — (AP) — Ike Williams, sharp-punching lightweight champion from Trenton, N. J., gave Tony Pellone of Greenwich Village a savage beating in a 10-round non-title fight last night at Madison Square Garden, nearly stopping the rugged welterweight in the closing rounds. The decision of the officials, for a change, was unanimous. Williams weighed 139 3/4, Pellone 145 1/4.

DEMARET'S BLAZING 64 GOOD FOR OPEN LEAD

MIAMI—(AP)—Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Cal., nervous as a poker player with four aces but rolling out the birdies, shot a six-under-par 64 in the second round of the $10,000 Miami Open Golf tournament yesterday to take a three stroke lead at 132.

Ed Furgol of Detroit pulled into second place with 68 which brought his total to 134. Another stroke behind at 135 were two other Detroiters, Walter Burkemo, who posted a second round 67, and Sammy Byrd, with a 68. Rating with the Detroiters were Dave Douglas, Wilmington, Del., winner of the recent Orlando Open, who carded a four-under-par 66.

Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans, leader in the first round, was tied at 137 with two leading amateurs, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, and Gene Dahlbender of Atlanta. Haas fired a two-over-par 72, Stranahan had a 69 and Dahlbender 68. Others at 137 were Ted Kroll, Philmont, Pa., Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, and Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa.

Bright sunshine and a high 70-degree temperature greeted the golfers after an overcast sky and a downpour of rain Thursday.

DEMARET WENT out in 33 and back in 31 for his sensational round. He collected two birdies in the first nine, one with a 12-foot putt, and four on the second.

The year's leading money winner and a native of Houston, Texas, Demaret readily admitted that he was "nervous" as he kept his drives down the middle and his iron shots hitting the handkerchief sized greens.

"I play best when I'm nervous and the tension is mounting," he said with a smile on his ruddy face.

"I get a birdie, then hope for two, then three. As they pile, the tension rolls up and keeps rolling. If it breaks I'm a goner."

Demaret has won four and placed second in six tourneys this year and earned a total of $24,536.83.

While the crooning Texan rolled into the lead, defending champion Sammy Snead asserted he "was awful" as he shot a 33-38—71 for a 141 total. His worst performance was on the par four 10th hole where his drive went out of bounds and he took three putts for a six.

Five players were bunched at 138. They were Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind.; Jim Milward, Three Lakes, Wis.; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn.; Skip Alexander, Lexington, N. C., and Claude Harmon, Palm Beach.

Yanks Swap Clark For Tribe Hurler

NEW YORK — (INS) — Baseball men headed homeward yesterday after winding up their three-day meeting in New York with two last-minute deals.

The New York Yankees swapped Allie Clark, a rookie outfielder who hit .373 in 24 games with New York this year, to Cleveland for Pitcher Charles (Red) Embree, who won eight games while losing 10.

The Phillies sent Tom Hughes, a so-so pitcher, to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Bert Haas, a .286 hitting infielder, and another player to be named later.

Joe Will Hang Up His Gloves After June Bout

NEW YORK — (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, his left eye still slightly puffed and discolored as a result of last week's bout with Jersey Joe Walcott, appeared before the press yesterday to announce that he will retire from the ring after one more title defense in June.

Louis met or fended off a barrage of questions almost as troublesome as the punches Walcott threw. Joe easily retained his crown as wise - cracking champion of the pugilistic trade and managed to bring forth the following bits of information:

(1) That he plans to fight once more, in June, against any opponent the 20th Century club may select.

(2) That Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich has as good a chance as Walcott of becoming Louis' opponent for that fight.

(3) That after his retirement, he will engage to some extent in several business enterprises, including a publicity agency with which he has been associated ever since he left the army and the soft drink concern, which bears his name, and which will add beer to its line of products.

(4) That he will leave for England Feb. 19 for a month's visit in connection with the "health and holiday" program and will start training again at French Lick, Ind., immediately after his return.

(5) That he thinks he just had a bad night, due probably to reducing his weight from 215 to 211 pounds in the last two days before the Walcott bout and that he thinks he would beat Walcott in a return engagement, and

(6) That his now - famous remark, "I'm sorry, Joe" to Walcott, merely meant that he was sorry that Jersey Joe and his handlers were so obviously perturbed about the decision. "I didn't think I had won or lost. I just wanted to get out of that ring because I had looked so bad," he further explained.

Opening the mass interview, Louis announced: "It will be my last fight in June. After that the next fight I have will be in a bar room. I've had enough; I've been around a long time."

Wilson, Bulpitt Post Low Scores

CLEARWATER — Mrs. R. E. Wilson and Babs Bulpitt posted gross 83s for scoring honors in the first Women's West Coat Golf association tournament here yesterday afternoon.

Betty Myers, Mrs. Mark McGarry and Marjorie Becker had 84s for runner-up honors.

Class A blind bogie honors went to Miss Bulpitt, Mrs. Ruth Dabler and Mrs. McGarry. In class B Lou Munson, Mrs. Frank Frazee and Mrs. L. M. Lassing were winners.

Next tournament is scheduled for Pasadena course in St. Petersburg Dec. 26. Pairings will be announced the preceding Wednesday.

PRESIDENT'S PARTY—Many distinguished anglers come to St. Petersburg, but few have the head man of St. Petersburg Rod and Reel club to guide them. Shown above is President Paul C. and Mrs. Clovis of Twentieth Century Press, Chicago aboard the Earl Gresh trout finder fisherman. The trout Mrs. Clovis displays represents two hours of fishing at Shore Acres.

Quail Destroyed In Charlotte County

An estimated two-thirds of the quail population on a 62,000-acre investigating area in Charlotte county was destroyed by the September hurricane and flood waters, O. E. Frye Jr., chief wildlife biologist for the State Game and Fresh Water Fish commission, said in a report released today.

The estimate was made after the commission's census takers accounted for but 1,575 birds in the area as compared with 4,500 they counted last spring, Frye explained.

"I have no definite proof of the number of quail actually killed by the hurricane, but judging from general conditions we found before and after the storm, I am convinced that two-thirds of the population perished," he stated in his report.

"We feel the result of the census in the Charlotte county area is indicative of the damage to quail in other flooded portions of South Florida," the report added.

Using bird dogs as spotters, the commission's quail checkers covered more than 85 miles in taking the census, Frye said.

Perch Fishing Picks Up: Glowing reports come from Lake Tsala Apopka on good speckled perch fishing. One report accompanied by a picture shows Lee Lupo with a string of 38 perch caught on one fishing trip. This, from Glenn's camp, Inverness.

Wilson, Kansas City, Kans., 45 pounds of trout; Fred Knoll Nowark, Ohio, 36 pounds of trout; D. A. Gaumer, Tarpon Springs, 7 redfish, three trout; Jay L. Green, Avon, N. J., 58 pounds of trout; Clark Moyer, Bemcek, Iowa, 76 pounds of trout; A. M. Robertson, Detroit, Mich., 28 pounds of trout; Mr. and Mrs. Runyon, Hillsdale, Mich., one 10-pound snook, 11 trout and one 3-pound sheepshead; Mrs. Lloyd Hughes, Cuba, Ohio, 176 pounds of trout; Mr. A. Today's Best Bet

Those trout. They were "running" at Johns pass the first of the week, then circled out into the gulf and around Bunces pass to Tampa bay. Lost them Wednesday and late Thursday located them again near Little Bayou. Today's best bet is the three pot holes on the south side of the Little Bayou channel. The morning tide is good, but we also like the afternoon tide. They're almost exclusively partial to live shrimp. This spot is easy to find on Fishing Map 1-A. Both Taylor's dock in Big Bayou and O'Neill's dock at Pinellas Point are close enough for good going. 9:45 a. m. to noon is good fishing.

"Whit" and his town crew cleared off waterfront lots between York street and 52nd street, Gulfport, and did a fine job . . . a few weeks ago Fifty-third street was cleared and passers on Thirty-first avenue south now get a pretty view of the bay.

Southern Schools Tighten Rules

ROANOKE, Va. — (UP) — The Southern conference yesterday braced its rule against professionalism so that no athlete who ever made a professional agreement—at any age—could play for the 16 schools of the loop.

Conference leaders also restored the prewar freshman rule, cutting out varsity play by first-year students, and batted down a proposal to ban post-season football games.

The annual conference meeting put teeth in the play-for-pay rule after the circuit's directors last fall wiped out professionalism charges against star North Carolina Halfback Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice and University of Richmond Back Raymond Morgan.

Morgan signed a baseball contract at the age of 14, and Justice signed a pro football contract while in service but the agreement was never approved.

Conference President William Couper of VMI said lawyers would work on the rule to make it airtight.

Movietown Murals

Film mogul Nick Schenck once noticed a pretty gal standing on the edge of a wharf. He was seized with an uncontrollable urge to push her into the ocean. And he dood it! . . . When the lovely lady came to the surface — her only reaction to the horseplay was a pretty smile . . . Schenck said to himself: "That's the kind of girl I'd like as my wife!"

P. S.: They were middle-aisled.

Among the hazards of stardom are the ugly whispers dreamed up by the jealous and envious. Few of Celluloidia's darlings have ever escaped the vicious back-biting.

It caused a newspaperman to observe: "The graves for many careers here are the result of a series of dirty digs."

* * *

When lovely Greer Garson floated into the Mocambo recently, a male admirer stared and sighed: "Greer looks like a poem nature has composed in her honor!"

* * *

In 1915 showman B. F. Keith offered this counsel to a young man: "My boy, motion pictures are a fad; they're like the bicycle. They won't last long."

Apparently, the young man wasn't impressed by the advice — Louis B. Mayer.

Among torch luggers preserved in alcohol is a well-known Hollywoodite. The other nite a scenarist spotted him guzzling likker at a bar and informed a friend: "I guess he's still trying to forget."

"The only thing he's forgetting," the friends snapped, "is when to stop drinking!"

One classic Groucho Marx fable deals with the time he was attending a preview. Just as the title was flashed on the screen, Groucho nudged his companion and intoned: "Drags, doesn't it?"

* * *

Cecil B. DeMille was one of the pioneers who blazed the celluloid trail. Year after year he turns out box-office gushers.

DeMille's brother has explained the secret of his success: "One thing I always admired about my brother Cecil is his ability to bite off more than he can chew — and then chew it."

* * *

In a profession where you can zoom to the heights overnight and plunge into oblivion just as quickly — insecurity is naturally rampant. No matter how successful a Hollywoodite may be — he is always haunted by the fear that it won't last long . . . It recalls the time a star was asked: "You have fame and fortune and everything else daydreams are made of —but why are you always worried"

The star replied: "Oh, I'm very optimisite about the future of my career. Yet, I'm not certain my optimism is justified!"

* * *

Another yarn along the same lines can be found in Roger Butterfield's pen-portrait of Sam Goldwyn in Life. Goldwyn's "The Best Years of Our Lives" copped 9 Academy Awards. Sam was so happy during the award ceremonies he wept tears of joy.

Now that happy feeling has worn away and Goldwyn says: "It is not good enough to be good. I never was bad on purpose in my life. Suppose next time I make a stinker? I'm worrying about that."

John Barrymore once heard a film audience applaud at the conclusion of a rousing dramatic episode.

John flipped: "They must be the same people who talk back to their radios!"

* * *

No farce has ever been filmed to match the zanyisms of movie censors. Some time ago the blue pencilers of an eastern state sent this to a producer: "Eliminate scene showing man kicking girl."

Then the nonsensor added: "This elimination required only during Sunday showings!"

(P. S.: In Boston "Amber" was banned on the Sabbath only).

* * *

After squirming through the premiere of a B-film, one critic turned to a colleague and said: "If Washington lived today —he would have slept here, too!"

* * *

Many belittlers of Movieville point to the plethora of cliche-ridden flickers as evidence of Hollywood's artistic ineptitude. But it should be remembered that film-makers must depend on formulas and assembly-belt technique because they must turn out hundreds of films annually to satisfy the demand.

In one year (1924) more than 800 features were released.

* * *

W. C. Fields once brushed off a hambo with: "If the word conceit wasn't in the dictionary—he would have inspired it!"

* * *

The caste system has always burdened the Cinema City. Those who earn (?) $5,000 a week peer down their schnoz at those who eke out a bare $1,000 weekly . . . It reminds us of the time a new star appeared in three profitable films. The studio execs' reward: They gave him the key to the execs' boys' room.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

JUDGING BY RESULTS

JUDGING your partner's tactics by the results obtained is the height of something or other. Many hands depend for their outcome on factors which could never be known. In a sizeable percentage of cases, the action which ordinarily would pan out the best —in view of the facts already known—may prove disastrous. And the action which figured to be the worst possible may just happen to prove the most profitable. Players who berate their partners because of what actually develops are out of bounds on plenty of occasions.

	♠ None ♥ A Q 2 ♦ A Q 4 ♣ K J 10 8 5 4 3
♠ K 10 8 6 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 10 9 3 ♣ A Q 6 2	N W E S	♠ A J 7 5 4 ♥ K J 9 5 4 ♦ K J 8 ♣ None
	♠ Q 9 3 ♥ 10 8 7 3 ♦ 7 6 5 2 ♣ 9 7

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	4 ♣	4 ♥
Pass	4 ♠	5 ♣	Pass
Pass	Dbl

Nobody except the North player at this particular table bid the 5-Clubs sacrifice. At all other tables in the big duplicate, East and West played the hand at a spade game, with a contract of either four or five, each of them taking eleven tricks to get 150 trick score and 500 vulnerable game bonus or a total of 650.

It developed that the sacrifice was unprofitable, as the defenders took two tricks each in hearts, diamonds and clubs to set the contract four. That produced a score of 700 points for East and West, giving them an East-West top score and North and South a clear-cut bottom.

After the deal South berated his partner for optimism in making that sacrifice, when he saw by the traveling score that the pair wound up "in the soup."

North refused to accept the tirade, and pointed out to South how little he required in South's hand to make the sacrifice bid profitable. Even the J of either red suit would have been enough to save the bacon, causing the set to be only three tricks. That would have given the pair top instead of bottom. Both East and West agreed with North that failing to find even one of those jacks with South was extremely improbable, despite the bidding done.

Your Week-End Question

Have you ever worked a squeeze play when you were on the defense against the declarer? If not, can you get up an example of how one might be developed?

Women's Club Approves Negro Youth Program

A Negro youth program was unanimously approved by Woman's club members yesterday at the clubhouse. With the help of the city, the club will sponsor a Negro children's playground at Wildwood park here.

He said that the trial and error method is more effective than trying to follow the teachings of someone else. Mr. Moffett also discussed the theme of his book, "Devil by the Tail."

The musical program was presented by Charlotte Snell, flutist, accompanied by Helen Hill Winchester. Mrs. Cordray, public safety chairman, spoke on safety in the city and said she hopes to make the club the most safety-minded in the city and of the federated clubs in Florida.

Bolivian Women Will Vote For First Time Today

By LUIS ZAVALA

LA PAZ, Bolivia — (UP) — Bolivian women will vote for the first time in history in municipal elections throughout Bolivia today. Several women are running as aldermanic candidates.

The contest also will be the first of its kind in more than 15 years, marking a restoration of the democratic tradition of electing municipal mayors and councilmen by popular election, abandoned under recent national regimes.

About 100,000 men and 25,000 women voters are registered.

Himself elected by popular vote last January, President Enrique Hertzog has moved to re-establish municipal autonomy by substituting the democratic system of going to the polls for that of personal appointment which some of his predecessors had adopted.

Seven political parties, ranging from extreme right-wing totalitarianism to Marxism and Trotskyism, will participate. None of them is avowedly for present-day Russian communism, however.

Two of them are of conservative tendency: Hertzog's socialist republican union and the liberals. Together with the left revolutionary party (PIR) which tends towards Marxism but is anti-Communist, they are the three chief contestants for municipal majorities.

Minor groups include the Pseudo-Trotskyist revolutionary labor party, the nationalist revolutionary movement (MNR) and the socialist fallange, all with a marked authoritarian Fascist-bent, and the new democratic action party, a centrist group.

No specific political issues are at stake in the election, which political leaders are taking more as a yardstick to gauge the exact popular strength of the various parties.

In La Paz and other large cities, municipal councils consist of eight majority and four minority aldermen. Smaller towns have five majority and one minority councilmen while villages elect three for the majority and one for the minority.

Four women are running for the municipal council in La Paz. One of them is Matilde Carmona, widow of President German Bush, who died in office, apparently a suicide.

Another is Senora Maria Luisa de Urioste who, although member of an aristocratic family, is supported by leftist elements.

Both are prominent in intellectual circles and in social work.

THE WORRY CLINIC

Escapism

Flora's husband was afraid so he fled via alcohol. When he faced his problem he cured himself.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Flora A., 29, is the mother of two youngsters.

"Dr. Crane, I've been married for 7 years," she said as she toyed with her handkerchief nervously, "and have been devoted to my husband.

"He has been very fond of me and our two children, at least while he is sober.

"But on week-ends he drinks up part of his wages, for he stops at a tavern with the fellows from the factory, and I never know how much money he'll have left.

"He wakes from his drunken sleep about Sunday noon, and is always sorry. He promises me he'll quit. But he never does. I've left him twice, but he then vowed he'd reform, so I came back.

"Dr. Crane, I don't want my children brought up in a drunken home, so what can I do? Would one of those advertised places be able to cure him of the drink habit?"

Alcohol is usually the crutch of weaklings who flee thereby from an unpleasant reality into a temporary oblivion. It is a first cousin to suicide, the dope habit, vagabondage and other devices by which people try to get away from situations that cuase them pain.

When we encounter a drunkard like Flora's husband, we must first ask ourselves why he wants to flee from reality. Men can be cured of the drink habit, but it is not efficient to eliminate the escape outlet without first correcting the cause.

In short, alcohol is the fire escape that often leads a man or woman from an inner conflagration of emotional conflict. It isn't very wise to destroy the fire escape, however, until we first put out the fire.

So to cure alcoholism, first solve the man's inner torment or emotional conflict! Then he'll have little need for the liquor. Put out the fire and he will not need the fire escape.

If, on the other hand, we simply make alcohol nauseous to a man who is resorting to it as a means of escape, he may flee by some other avenue, as by dope, or even suicide.

What causes torment in Flora's husband? I later had a conference with him, and learned that he had eloped with her against her parents' wishes, for they wanted her to marry a young attorney who had already proposed to her.

She didn't love the attorney as much as she did her future husband, so she married the latter. However, he had promised her many things which he couldn't later produce, especially since the depression had hit him hard.

Besides, the attorney was becoming a prominent man in politics. So Flora's husband felt doubly chagrined.

His meager pay check each Saturday noon vividly reminded him of the difference between himself and the prominent attorney. And his wife's parents were still hostile.

Moreover, a few instances of bad judgment on his part, as when he bought a new automobile and lost it to the finance company, didn't help build up his confidence. The day he lost the car he had accepted a friend's offer to take a drink and was later carried home dead drunk.

Which led to a quarrel, and further deflation of his male ego hence a vicious circle was set up. The more deflated in pride, the more he drank, which made him feel the more a fool, so he fled again via drink.

When he was helped by night school classes to obtain a better job, he didn't need this "alcoholic" escape any longer.

SATURDAY PEACE PLATE

Spiced Meat And Yams

Glazed and fragrant comes spiced meat and glazed yams to table on today's Peace Plate.

The menu plan also calls for creamed asparagus, and a delicious winter salad bowl. For a crunchy top fruit dessert easily made from canned peaches, have peach crumble, warm or cold.

SPICED MEAT AND GLAZED YAMS

2/3 cup apple juice and canned meat liquid (mixed)
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons fat
1/8 teaspoon salt
12-ounce can spiced luncheon meat
4-6 yams or sweet potatoes, cooked, peeled (and left whole)

Combine apple juice, meat liquid, brown sugar, fat and salt in deep 9-inch skillet. Boil 3 minutes, stirring occasionally. Place meat in center of skillet, and surround with yams. Cover and simmer 20-25 minutes. Baste with sirup several times during cooking to glaze meat and yams. 4 servings. Variation: Substitute canned pineapple juice for apple juice, reducing brown sugar to 3/4 cup.

PEACH CRUMBLE

Put the sliced peaches from a No. 2 1/2 can in a greased casserole . . . Mix 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and 1/4 cup peach sirup and pour over peaches. Mix together 6 tablespoons flour, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg, and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon. Add 3 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine and work in lightly with a fork until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle over peaches and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes or until brown and crispy. Serve warm or cold. 6 servings.

FOR WORLD BETTERMENT

Hollywood Glamor Stars Have What It Takes To Be 'Eugenic Parents', Says Society

NEW YORK — (UP) — Movie stars like Clark Gable and Jane Russell have what it takes to be "eugenic parents", the Society for the Betterment of the Human Race said yesterday.

"Eugenic parents", explained Mrs. Adele Lundell, the society's secretary, "are persons who are outstanding examples of the human race, and whose offspring are of an ever-improving type."

Along with Gable, Mrs. Lundell said, the society found in a survey that Actor Burt Lancaster and Singer Jack Smith also have "the natural endowments for the eugenic father."

And screen beauties Betty Grable and Linda Darnell, as well as Miss Russell, she said, fill the fill for the all-over beauty, size and health that "eugenic" mothers must have.

Mrs. Lundell said the society undertook the survey because it was worried about the future of Homo Sapiens in the United States.

She said that unless New Yorkers and other city folk spend more time in the sun "we will be breeding a pill-taking nation of hypochondriacs."

"The 132,224 doctors in the United States are fighting a losing battle of research with city dwellers to replace nature's elements in the human body unless we immediately follow the example of our forefathers who spent 66 2/3 per cent of their day outdoors," she said.

"As a natural result, Hollywood's most rugged looking males and most glamorous looking female stars always make a bigger hit with the city-dwelling vitamin-eaters."

And the glamor boys and girls of Hollywood can do something about it, Mrs. Lundell said.

She said the society hoped the six stars named would allow a docter appointed by the society to conduct scientific tests on them to show how they got that way.

The stethoscope and tape measure not only would prove the society's claim that they are ideal "eugenic parents", Mrs. Lundell said, but also would "add to present day knowledge of the human race."

Edgren Paces Women Keglers

Marion Edgren toppled maples for a 510 total and high pin honors in Women's league play at Paramount alleys Thursday night as she led Edgren and Beck Builders to a 2-1 decision over Hall-Maytag.

Jean Ireland was runner up with 502 pins in a losing cause as her team, Trade Winds Bar, could take but one game from Frank's Sandwiches, a team handicapped at 29 pins a game. James Food Center blanked P. K. Smith as Milliken posted a 426 total.

Rutland's swept three games from Treat's Surgical Supply behind the 490-pin bowling of Norma Hirtle. Ackerman's 435 helped Coca-Cola defeat Jones Plumbing, 2-1.

*—New 1947 low.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Paced by oils, the stock market enjoyed a fairly active but selective recovery yesterday.

Trends hardened before midday as dealings quickened. There were subsequent slowdowns with top gains running to 2 points or so trimmed in the majority of cases at the close and minor losses rather well distributed. Transfers of 1,220,000 shares compared with 940,000 Thursday and were the best since last Friday, which, in turn were the largest since Oct. 30.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .4 of a point at 63.8 but the utility average was off a shade. It was the sixth straight session without an overall loss. The market was broad. Of 1,039 issues registering, 569 rose and 258 fell.

Up fractions to a point or so, some at new 1947 highs, were Houston Oil at 27 5/8, Sunray 11, Phillips Petroleum 57 7/8, Pure Oil 26 7/8, Sinclair Oil 16 5/8, Continental Oil 50, Plymouth Oil 33, Texas Co. 58, Ohio Oil 30 1/4, Texas Gulf Producing 19 and Panhandle Producing 7 5/8. Exceptions, following a California court ruling, were Mission Corp., off 1 1/8 at 47 3/8 and Pacific Western Oil down 5/8 at 50.

Other gainers of 1 to 3 points were Nickel Plate Railway at 44 (high for the year), Eastern Stainless Steel 19 3/4, Gillette 32, Douglas Aircraft 47 1/2, Goodrich 57 1/2, Youngstown Sheet 75 3/4, American Smelting 57 5/8, Phelps Dodge 46 3/8, Continental Can 32 5/8 and Electric Power & Light 17 1/8. Dividends were virtually ignored but California Packing was up 1 7/8 at 34 1/8 on a raised disbursement.

Modest plus signs were retained by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Oliver Corp., Boeing, United Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Can, Union Carbide, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, Southern Railway, Great Northern Railway, American Woolen, International Paper, Schenley and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Fractionally lower were Republic Steel, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe and Pepsi Cola.

Railway bonds steadied. At Chicago wheat yielded 1 3/4 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel, corn 1 to 2 1/4 and oats were down 2 5/8 to up 1. Cotton finished off 20 cents to up 85 cents a bale.

In the curb a hoisted dividend advanced National Pressure Cooker 2 points. Other forward leaners were Midwest Oil, Woodley Petroleum, Weyenberg Shoe, N. J. Zinc, American Gas, Cities Service and Humble Oil. Laggards were Geo. A. Fuller, Kaiser Frazer, Adams Hat (still reflecting a cut dividend) and Aluminum of America. Turnover here was 310,000 shares versus 290,000 Thursday.

University Scholarships, Loans Granted Veterans

TALLAHASSEE—(AP)—Revising earlier plans, the state board of control agreed yesterday to give war veterans 20 per cent of the university scholarships and loans provided by the recently established $66,500 Ruge memorial fund.

Originally the board had limited participation in the fund to non-veterans on the theory that veterans could obtain adequate college help under the GI bill of rights.

However, presidents of the University of Florida and Florida State University reported they found some veterans needed extra money, particularly on the basis of short-term loans to cover delays in receipt of federal allowance checks.

The method of allocating the funds to students of the two institutions also was revised on the joint recommendation of the two presidents.

Bandits Snatch $20,000 Payroll In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH — (AP) — Two armed bandits snatched payrolls totaling approximately $20,000 from construction officials on busy Washington avenue in daylight yesterday.

Alexander Mahler, 40, and Albert Brosof, 34, victims of the armed pair, said the robbery was acted out with precision that indicated rehearsal.

Mahler and Brosof said they entered a corridor of a building on Washington avenue with the money in two paper bags. As shoppers swarmed past nearby, a man stepped quickly up behind them put a pistol against Mahler's back, and said:

"This is a stickup. Don't make any noise."

He jerked a bag containing $10,500 from Brosof's arm, and a second man grabbed a bag containing more than $9,000 from Mahler. Each was for a separate construction job.

13 VETERANS BARRED

TAMPA — (AP) — Thirteen veterans in the Tampa area have been barred from further veterans readjustment allowances under the GI bill of rights because they falsely claimed payments, William E. Culbreath Jr., Florida state employment service manager, reported yesterday.

BODY IDENTIFIED

TAMPA — (AP) — Deputy Sheriff Neil Keen identified yesterday the body of a man found floating in Tampa bay off Rockey point as Charges M. Bonds, 33, of Plant City. Keen said Bonds probably slipped from a pipe walkway Sunday night while walking to a dredge where he was to begin work.

107 WORKERS KILLED

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — One hundred and seven Florida men were killed this year while at work, Chairman Carl B. Smith of the state industrial commission said yesterday.

BEEKEEPERS PROTEST

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — The Florida Beekeepers' association appealed, with little success, to the state plant board yesterday for help in enforcement of a new law prohibiting shipment of second hand bee equipment and bees on combs into the state.

STUDENTS TO STUDY ART

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Art treasures collected by John Ringling, the late circus magnate, and bequeathed to the state will be studied next spring by students of Florida State university.

The board of control yesterday approved a co-operative agreement which will permit FSU art students to attend a three-week spring seminar at the John and Mable Ringling museum of art in Sarasota. The Seminar, which also will be open to students of the University of Florida and to the public, probably will become an annual affair, FSU spokesmen said.

GIFT CITRUS EXEMPT

ORLANDO — (AP) — Christmas gift shipments of citrus fruit to Canada valued up to $25 are exempt from the new Canadian import regulations, Elvin A. Voges, secretary of the Florida Express Fruit Shippers association, said here yesterday.

He said he had been informed by the Canadian ministry of finance that gift boxes sent prior to Jan. 16 would be permitted under a temporary change in the regulations.

NEW LIQUOR LICENSES

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — The state beverage department approved applications for 17 new liquor licenses in Florida during November.

Director James T. Vocelle said most of the new applications were for license for newly constructed establishments in the Dade county area.

I am going to be at Daviston, Ala. at my granddaddy Croley's house this Christmas Eve. I would like a boy's bicycle and a cowboy cap. pistol and a cowboy holster. My grandaddy lives in front of the Daviston high school.

With love,
HAROLD PORTER CROLEY

I have been trying to be a good girl so that Santa Claus might remember me and bring a new dolly, a sweater-dress, shoes, ribbons, and a beach ball. Please remember all other starving and sick boys and girls, men and women. Lots of love,

Citrus Prices Keep Climbing After Slump

LAKELAND — (AP) — A steady upward trend in prices for Florida citrus on northern markets this week appeared to be continuing, with buyers on the New York market paying more for oranges than they had in a month.

At Thursday's New York auction, 6,000 boxes of the so-called "interior" oranges brought an average price of $2.79 per box and 3,500 boxes of Indian River oranges sold for $3.86.

This was the best price for "interior" fruit since Nov. 14 when they brought $3.14.

Lower prices in other auctions brought the day's average on Florida oranges to $2.57 on 13,000 boxes sold at nine eastern markets.
